No Increase in Garbage Fee If Residents Cooperate

Even in the garbage disposal business, one good turn deserves another.

Thus the Laseke Disposal co. this week is asking for a good turn from the residents of Arlington Heights.

THE SCAVENGER firm carried out its part of the bargain last week by agreeing to haul garbage for another year at the same prices as it did during the past two years. This it did despite the fact that under its original contract with the village, it could have demanded an increase in prices for the coming year.

The favor the disposal service wants in return is quite reasonable. It is simply this: comply with the rules.

Home owners are now "abusing" the system, slowing down the collectors and pushing costs even higher, complains the firm. It wants the users of the service to realize that things can't continue this way much longer. Not with starting wages for drivers going from $109 to $144 a week in the fall.

"WE ARE GETTING snowed under by the extras," said owner Henry W. Laseke. "Under our agreement with the village, we are to pick up two 20-gallon cans twice a week. That ought to be adequate but apparently it isn't. We have been picking up extra baskets and boxes as a courtesy but lately the load has gotten too heavy and we've had to stop.

"Now we're leaving it up to the drivers whether or not to pick up extra refuse."

Some of the overloading is caused by families doubling up on a single pick-up with their neighbors. Other users stack grass and trimmings chin-high on the curb in whatever container is handy.

One of the worst offenders filled a barrel with dirt and odds and ends of buildings materials. Two men could barely manage to dump it.

Families who have more than enough refuse to fill two cans twice a week should do one of two things, Laseke said: pay 75 cents a month extra, for which the firm will accept anything except building materials or call the firm for a special, one-time pick-up.

One particularly bad type of cheating the firm finds hard to stop. This occurs when owners who pay only for curb service leave their garbage cans at the back door.

IT TOOK CONSIDERABLE effort to balance the lid on top of this over-full garbage can and Laseke Disposal Service would rather Arlington Heights residents not try to test the forces of gravity this way.

MANY ARLINGTON HEIGHTS RESIDENTS aren't following the rules for garbage collection, as testified by Laseke Disposal Service and this picture. Instead of placing all refuse in two cans, this resident heaped it high in whatever containers were handy, making for an unsightly neighborhood as well as making the work of the disposal service more difficult.

J. WARD WRIGHT, acting village manager, negotiated the agreement with Laseke. The present prices, $1.90 a month for curb service and $2.75 a month for back-door service, will continue until August 1, 1959.

The original contract negotiated in 1956 provided for an extension of the contract at prices tied into the cost-of-living index. Wright said the index has risen enough in the past two years to entitle Laseke to an increase of almost 30 cents. Laseke agreed to forego the price hike and the village agreed to undertake a revision of the present system during the next year. Wright said the village will probably take over billing and other paper work under the new system. The revision will also seek to eliminate present "abuses," he noted.

Commuter-Parker Reveals Woes of His Daily Battle

Commuters have been known to set their alarm clocks an hour early just to be assured of a parking place near the station.

But the sleep-shattering ring of the alarm is as a bird call compared to what commuter Raymond J. Benson of Arlington Heights has gone through while parking his auto.

HE RECENTLY WROTE to village officials recounting a tale of woe without doubt unmatched in the annals of commuting.

Benson, of 410 N. Reuter, wrote to complain about the posting of two-hour parking limit signs around the perimeter of the downtown. He feels he and other commuters are being unfairly treated and being either forced to cough up a quarter a day to park in a lot or walk up to eight blocks to the station.

In the course of reciting his troubles, he told of his battles with a nameless Pine st. housewife who objected to his parking in front of her home some months ago. That was before the village posted her street for two-hour parking and thus exiled the commuters to the hinterlands.

ONE DAY AS Benson parked his car on the street the woman shouted at him not to park in front of her home. He disregarded her request that day and other days. She took to waxing his car's windows with soap.

One evening he walked back to his car to find garbage placed on the hood, broken glass under the tires. Another time he had a flat on the way home and found four finishing nails neatly stuck into a tire, in such a way that he couldn't have picked them up while driving.

His private war ended the day the village limited parking on the street but this action didn't please Benson. He says that the two-hour signs are "a device to placate people who don't want cars parked in front of their homes." He adds that it deprives the public of full use of the streets.

Acting village manager J. Ward Wright replied by letter that the policy was adopted because some parkers were blocking driveways and parking on parkway lawns. Wright added that some streets are too narrow to allow parking.

BENSON COUNTERS with the claim that police should handle those who park improperly in driveways. As to the other village argument of narrow streets, Benson says the village is inconsistent because it puts parking meters on some of the narrowest streets in town.

Benson said he will arm himself with facts and go back to the village officials to try once more for repeal of the time limit.

In a final shot, he said the village wouldn't need all the new off-street parking lots if commuters could park on the street.

Parents Away, So He Smashes Door

Three days after he was discharged from the army, Bruce O. Becker, 31, came to visit his parents in Arlington Heights Saturday night.

Not finding them at home at 810 S. Bristol ln., Becker became irritated, according to police. He picked up a vase from the front yard, threw it at a storm door at the rear of the house, officers reported.

THE SOUND OF breaking glass aroused a neighbor who called police. Becker, staying at a hotel at 5009 N. Sheridan rd., Chicago, lodged in the Arlington Heights police lockup Saturday night and was held there until Wednesday morning when he was unable to make $200 bond. He was charged with drunk and disorderly conduct. The village asked for a two-week continuance Wednesday and Becker was sent to county jail to await trial June 18.

Police records also disclosed a long Memorial day weekend with no more than the usual number of vehicle accidents. During the official holiday, from 6 p.m. Thursday to 6 a.m. Monday there were but four traffic mishaps.

ONLY ONE RESULTED in injury and that was reported slight. Mrs. Lillian Simoulis, 50, of Chicago, complained of pain about the neck and shoulders after an accident Friday on Wilke rd. near Campbell st. She was a passenger in an auto driven by her husband, Peter G., which was struck in the rear by a car driven by Helen B. Bruning, 36, of 44 N. Greenwood, Palatine. Police said the Simoulis auto stopped to avoid a dog.

He Saves His Car From Fire

Bernard J. Kelly of Arlington Heights is a man of action.

Noticing smoke pouring out of his garage Sunday afternoon, he called the fire department, rushed to the garage and forced an overhead door part way open.

KELLY PEERED inside, determined no children were inside, then decided to rescue his auto from the flames. He backed it out, knocking out the door in the process. Kelly, who lives at 738 S. Chestnut, was slightly burned on both arms. But he prevented serious fire damage to his car, which only had its top blistered.

Damage to the garage was estimated at about $500. The front and top of the interior of the frame building were gutted. Firemen exinguished the blaze within a few minutes.

Westgate 'Circus' Brings Fun, Furor

Village Exiles Animals

The carnival now holding forth at Westgate shopping center won't be forgotten for a long time.

By Tuesday evening the carnival — brought in for a six-day stand as a shopping promotion — had created a bigger furor than a passel of cats in a rain barrel.

THERE WAS A three-ring circus going on among the shopping center merchants, Arlington Heights village officials and Westgate residents.

Highlights of the excitement:

—By Tuesday noon the carnival's wild animals had been tossed out of the village, by village order. The remainder of the carnival stays through Saturday.

—Residents of the neighborhoods—how many or few nobody quite knew—complained the roars of the lions kept them from sleeping Sunday and Monday nights.

—Merchants and village officials argued for two days about a misunderstanding over fees to be paid to the village. The village emerged as the winner Tuesday night.

—Hundreds flocked to the shopping center to enjoy themselves on the rides with the aid of tickets given out with purchases.

THE ANIMALS scarcely had a chance to prove their showmanship before they were exiled to the countryside, far from the ungracious atmosphere of suburbia.

PeeWee, the only lion in the world which can hop like a kangaroo, according to owner Jules Jacot, was in but three shows Monday afternoon before he and his friends were run out of town.

Also sent packing were eight other lions, four Indian elephants, a pair of monkeys, a pair of goats and six performing dogs. A string of ponies was allowed to stay.

Tuesday afternoon Jacot, wearing a pith helmet, a deep tan and a glum expression, stalked the paved prairies of the shopping center, allowing as how this is the first time such a thing has happened in his 50 years of lion-handling.

"They loved us in Bermuda last year," he commented. "The governor general sent us a letter afterwards, telling us how much they liked us."

HIS COMPANION, a grizzled veteran named K. O. Green, was equally morose about having to pack up his animals and move on. K. O. owns the dogs, monkeys and goats. He claimed the show had educational features, as one of the monkeys is a rhesus monkey — "one of the kind they get polio vaccine from."

The animals were ordered to leave under an ordinance which bans noisy animals from the village day or night. According to residents who phoned in their protests, the lions were the noisiest, as befits the king of the jungle.

One woman living near said her children woke up three times Monday night. But most of the complaining, according to the talk among the merchants, was done by one woman who said her dog was so frightened by the roars that it messed up a carpet. There are homes backing up on the shopping center and across the street.

THE DISAGREEMENT over fees between the merchants' association and the village involved nearly $1,000.

Two weeks ago hardware store owner Harold Freitag asked the village board to change fees currently on the books for carnivals.

The merchants didn't mind paying the $15 a day carnival fee but felt they shouldn't have to pay an extra charge of $10 a day for each booth with an admission charge. They said the association is a not-for-profit corporation. The board at the time agreed to rewrite the ordinance to distinguish between not-for-profit sponsors and ventures for profit only. Trustees provided only that there would be a "settlement" on the extra fee question.

What the merchants understood by "settlement" was obviously not what all the village officials understood, it came out this week. Freitag thought the booth fees, amounting to $160 a day or $960 for six days, would be waived. J. Ward Wright, acting village manager, thought differently.

UNDER A THREAT to close the carnival down, the merchants paid the full $175 a day for two days Tuesday. It was paid under protest, the merchants stating that a carnival permit good for the six days had been issued two weeks ago.

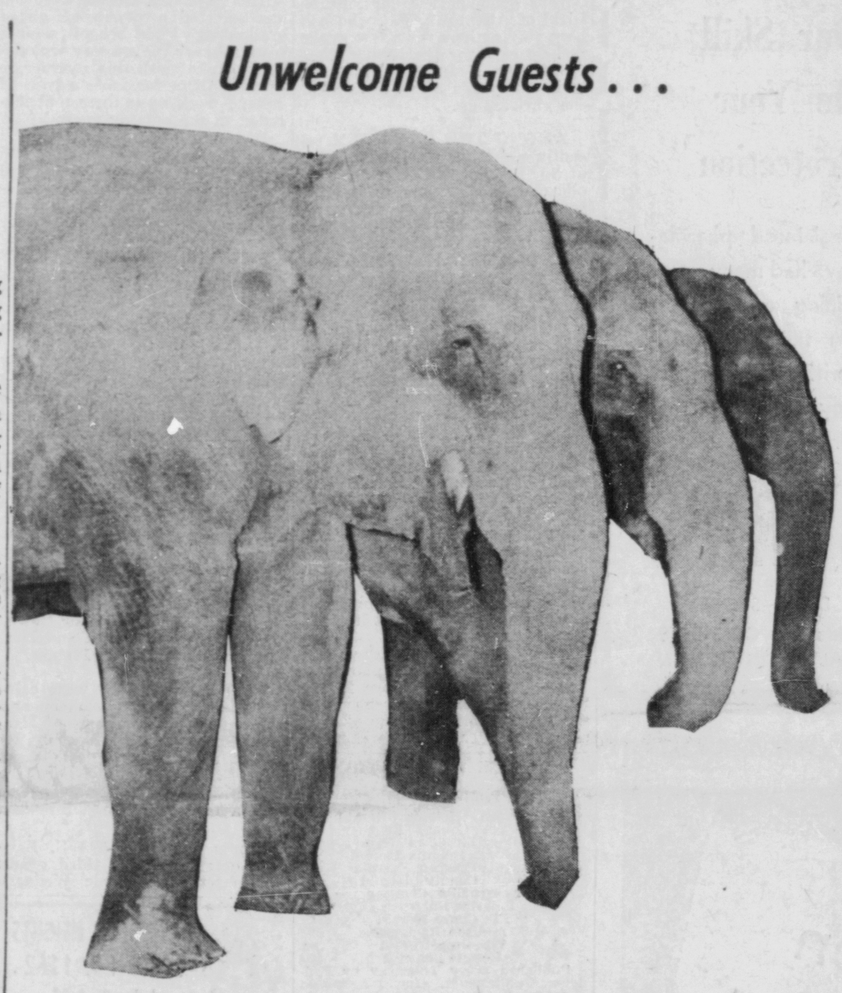
Wright Tuesday night declared the carnival permit had been issued by error and later voided.

Trustees said they couldn't rewrite the ordinance in time to reduce the fees because a period of 10 days is needed before it could take effect.

So the shopping center had to pay the full amount of $175 a day Wednesday in order to stay open. Webb Hartmann, chamber of commerce manager, called the sum "outrageous."

Referring to the fact that no one was apparently aware how many animals would accompany the carnival, Freitag drew a laugh at the Tuesday meeting when he quipped: "It turned out to be a little bigger than we thought it would."

Unwelcome Guests . . .



Teacher's Life in Summer Devoted to Grunts, Groans

Ah! For the life of a teacher, with three months off every summer to loaf in the sun!

If things were really like that, there would be thousands clamoring to get into teaching, instead of a teacher shortage, reply people already in the field.

ACCORDING TO A survey of Arlington Heights public schools, there are very few teachers planning summers of fishing, travel and relaxation. For the most part the teachers will take whatever summer jobs are available or head back to the campus for post-graduate courses in a variety of fields.

Married teachers, particularly men, will step into work far different from the 10-month (not nine) routine during the year. Most seem to prefer something involving physical exercise or contact with the out-of-doors.

Said Richard Hetke, principal of Ridge school: "I work out in the open for a relative who's a roofing contractor, calling on people and even laying some roofing myself. I find it's a good contrast and I can take off a few pounds picked up while behind a desk."

ONE OF THE MORE unusual summer occupations is shared by Robert Spinks, principal of Dryden school, and Frank Santelli, a teacher at South junior high school. They operate an ice cream stand in Mount Prospect during the summer.

Chester Raasch, who teaches a lively class of seventh graders at Miner junior high school, has what he considers the perfect hot-weather occupation. He combines a favorite hobby, travel, with earning a livelihood by conducting tours for Cartan Travel bureau.

He will lead groups of tourists — "mostly elderly women" — on whirlwind tours of the West. In two weeks the breathless sightseers will visit the Grand Canyon, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Victoria, Lake Louise and Banff. He has two such tours on his schedule, plus two more leisurely jaunts to the Canadian Rockies.

ALSO HEADING for the West is another Miner school teacher, Robert Smith. He and his family, except for an infant to be left home in Skokie, will rough it at Philmont, N. Mex. scout ranch for a week while he takes an adult leader training course.

The envy of the school system are two misses at South school who will journey overseas. Joan Peterson will sail from New York next Wednesday on the Queen Mary, bound for Europe. Her timing will be split-second, for the teachers will not finish up at the schools until Tuesday. Pupils are free for the summer Friday.

Miss Peterson will attend a course in international studies at the University of Geneva in Switzerland and trek through Scandinavia and Englind on her 10-week trip.

ROXI-ANN PARKER, another South school teacher, will also leave next week on an excursion to New Zealand. She picked the country simply because "it's always interested me" and will combine air and sea travel on the 10-week trip.

Marriage and a new career as a housewife beckons several teachers from each school but for the majority the summer interlude means a different type of work, not a vacation.

Injured In Truck Collision

An Arlington Heights man suffered only minor injuries Wednesday, May 28 when he was knocked from a state dump truck which collided with a semi-truck on S. Northwest hwy, at Hicks rd. in Palatine.

William Schoenbeck, 727 N. Vail, Arlington Heights, suffered only a scratched knee when he landed on the pavement.

The dump truck, driven by C. J. Koelling, 62, Route 3, Palatine, came north off Hicks rd. when it collided with the semi, driven by Lyle C. Caldwell, 30, of 629 Cedar, Madison, Wis.

Summer Speeds Bring 'Fine' Rash

Drivers' speeds are picking up with the approach of warm weather and also increasing is the number of arrests by Arlington Heights police.

Exactly 40 drivers were fined for speeding last month by Magistrate W. F. Neumann. This compares with three speeding fines in March and 19 in April.

Bay Tree Legend

The bay tree is said to have sheltered the Holy Family during a thunderstorm and, according to legend, lightning will never strike a bay tree.

The Editor's Column

by STUART R. PADDOCK

We take our hats off to residents of Rolling Meadows. George Howes, Palatine township collector, reports that a greater percentage of taxpayers in that city paid their personal property tax bills than in any other area.

We are sorry to learn from other collectors that about the same number of personal property bills were thrown into the waste baskets as in previous years.

This may be because only a few of the judges to whom the state's attorney has turned over such delinquencies, have pressed collections.

Several inquiries have been received at this publication office as to how and when tax protests can be filed.

Protests as to valuations can only be made in the year for which the valuations are set. Thus it is too late to object to valuations on which 1957 bills are now in collection.

A person can enter a protest with the board of appeals on valuation on next year's taxes during the 10-day period that hearings are being held on property in his particular township.

Local collectors report that a greater number than usual have filed protests on realty taxes than last year. Such protests can only be based on the tax rate.

Persons who protest save very little money. They must turn over the full amount of their tax to the county treasurer, who is now making refunds on 1952 taxes — five years late.

The taxing body is the one which really suffers. In justice to those who pay their taxes in full, every taxing body should protect its rate in the courts.

Too often they make a rate settlement with some large taxpayer which settlement benefits the smaller taxpayer whose attorney rides along on the coat tails of the large corporation.

A member of Arlington Heights Park Board recently explained to us why there is not a navigable street on the east side of Pioneer Park.

The explanation sounded reasonable and was so accepted by us, but some of those who have occasion to use that fieldhouse have asked us to use our good offices to hurry up construction of the road.

Our churches spend a lot of money on parking lots. How about making a parking lot of that street while waiting for pavement? It would sure please a lot of park customers.

How much punishment can a man take? The day we congratulated ourselves on the payment of the first installment of last year's taxes, we are informed by Uncle Sam that the second installment on the 1958 estimated income tax must be paid by June 15.

A contributor to this week's Fence Post is getting some quick action. She complains about the increasing number of telephone solicitors.

We have personally received a number of such calls and we sympathize with the women who are called at inopportune moments.

Orders have been issued to our classified department to refuse ads that solicit women to make the calls. Calls can be ridiculous.

A young lady phoned a member of our staff, who owns a stone house saying, "your house has been selected as one of the outstanding in your community. We will be happy to install aluminum siding."

Trustees Split on Building Request

Arlington Heights strict off-street parking requirements were waived Tuesday to permit construction of a small building to cover every foot of a downtown lot.

Village board spilt 3-2 on the waiver vote and the vote of Mayor Carlisle was needed for passage. In favor were Trustees Robert B. Bukowski, James E. Millay and Frederick A. Weber; opposed John A. Hoover and Melvin L. Kurtz.

THE TWO-STORY building will be constructed on a lot 35 by 38 feet on the west side of Evergreen ave., between Northwest hwy. and Miner st. A billboard now is on the small lot, surrounded by buildings on three sides.

Dr. Frank J. Psota, a dentist, will erect the building to completely cover the site, a spokesman for him told trustees. It would contain two small retail stores on the ground floor and two offices and a small laboratory upstairs.

Weber noted that there obviously was not room on the site for the seven off-street parking spaces that would be required by ordinance and said this was a "hardship" case.

HOOVER criticized the speed with which the matter was handled. The question was debated for only several minutes. Hoover also observed that "historically" such waiver requests have been denied.

Kurtz agreed, citing a request refused a year ago for a waiver for the Mors bakery property. He called that request "just as legitimate as this one."

The ordinance calls for one off-street parking stall for each 300 square feet in commercial buildings. The decision to relax the stringent provision apparently foreshadowed a change in sentiment on the board. The ordinance is now being revised by village attorney Stephen Jurco but there has been no indication as to whether the requirement will be eased.

A second zoning matter to come before trustees concerned a vacant property at the northeast corner of Windsor dr. and Northwest hwy. in Stonegate.

E. M. LEVIN, Arlington Heights real estate operator, said the lot should be classed as commercial property. Levin said it was zoned commercial in 1927 but remained undeveloped. He claimed that the village had changed the zoning of the lot and others near the Windsor dr. entrance to Stonegate about 1954. A current zoning map shows the lot as residential but Levin displayed a map he said he obtained from former Treasurer W. F. Meyer. The map classed the parcel as commercial.

Attorney Jurco will study the question. (AF

Neighborhood Barbecues Caught in Holiday Rains

"Miscellaneous" is the only possible word for local holiday weekend activities that included an impromptu surprise birthday party minus the guest of honor, welcome homes to several college students and neighborhood backyard barbeques that were caught in the early evening Memorial day rain. For the many who spent the holiday gardening and transplanting the rain was a thing of beauty and a joy forever despite the damp dining it caused for some.

A BETWEEN-THE-raindrops picnic was almost completely successful late Friday afternoon at the Robert Swanson home, 830 S. Mitchell with most of the pot-luck supper prepared and eaten before the rains came. Fifteen neighborhood families shared one another's culinary offerings and enjoyed the usual good fellowship found along S. Mitchell.

A Memorial eve round robin bridge-dinner was enjoyed by 18 couples of the Windsor Heights section at the Old Orchard country club Thursday night. The get-together, an annual affair of the Windsor Heights bridge club, concluded the group's activities for the season officially, although the cards will not be forgotten entirely during the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Wright, 391 N. Derbyshire, emerged as Thursday night's champions.

MR. AND MRS. DALE R. Hauser and Deborah Lynn, 404 W. Oakton, spent the holiday weekend in Cleveland visiting Ohio friends, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Funk, Karen and Kathy.

Davy Crockett stopped at 802 S. Chestnut Sunday, but being only 6 years old and much tamer than his famous namesake, this Davy brought along his parents, the Robert Crocketts of Quincy. They were Sunday guests at the Newell Crockett home where weekend visitors included the senior Newell Crocketts of Fort Madison, Iowa and the Howard Crocketts of Freeport.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dalton, 522 S. Dunton, observed their 16th wedding anniversary Memorial day but previous plans to celebrate were cancelled when daughter Kathy had her tonsils out during the school holiday, and the family spent the weekend quietly, consoling one another.

ANOTHER WEEKEND celebration, a birthday party, was cancelled by the birthday girl's mumps and sister Judy's German measles. Susan Mc Intosh was 4 years old Saturday and while a children's party was out of the question a mild family celebration was quite in order as both girls were over the worst stages of their respective ills.

The Keith Posselt family, 302 W. Maple, spent a busy weekend in Indiana, visiting friends, the Arthur Kindlers in Terre Haute, and watching the "500" race at Indianapolis Friday. Miss Robin Posselt went to her second prom in as many weekends, attending the Garfield high school prom in Terre Haute Saturday night.

THE MELVIN BORNS, 1007 E. Olive, were hosts Friday afternoon to 20 family members at a perfectly timed pre-rain picnic in honor of California visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rapier of Los Angeles. The Rapiers, cousins and guests of Mrs. Born's parents, the Charles Semples, 726 Clarendon, arrived in Arlington Heights Thursday for a 10-day visit here. They will next visit friends in Chicago and Wisconsin and return here for a brief farewell stay before returning to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Born left Saturday for Carlinville to get their daughter, Marybeth, who had completed her sophomore year at Blackburn college and will spend the summer at home.

OTHER COEDS home for the summer are Miss Lynn Heberling and Miss Jane Bedingfield. Lynn returned home to 819 W. Fairview ave., Saturday from Lakeland, Fla., where she has finished her second year at Florida Southern university. Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Bedingfield, 612 N. Dunton, came home for the summer last Thursday after completing her freshman year at Cornell college in Des Moines.

The William McCormicks, 844 S. Vail, enjoyed a restful weekend at Lake Geneva where they visited Mr. McCormick's mother and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Colburn. An almost traffic-free return trip Sunday night made the weekend a completely relaxed vacation.

ABOUT 30 COUPLES in the 1000 S. Dunton st. area got together Saturday evening for a semi-outdoor, multi-purpose party that ended up in the home of one of the guests of honor. Besides celebrating the holiday, the Dunton streeters wanted to give a couple of residents a memorable farewell party and welcome two newcomers to the genial neighborhood.

The outdoor affair began in the Calvin Huber's spacious back yard at 1021 S. Dunton, farewelling the Lawrence Gentners and the Alva Roeskes, both of whom plan to move to Indianapolis soon. Being welcomed were the John Nesslar family who settled at 1006 S. Dunton three weeks ago, and the Elmer Spains who barely made it in time for the party, arriving from N. Kennicot at 1002 S. Dunton last Thursday.

When Saturday's deluge began the goodbye-hello celebration in the Huber backyard was rushed to the Roeske basement where the dancing and fun continued. Mr. and Mrs. Nesslar, 5-year-old Mark and 2-year-old Nancy are former Broadview residents.

MR. AND MRS. J. B. Hermes, 717 Mayfair, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Marold of Montclair, N. J., over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Peterson of Peoria, and their infant son, Scott, were weekend guests at the home of Mrs. Peterson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kussow, 1203 Woodford. Mrs. Kussow has the added pleasure of taking care of her new grandson for a week while the parents are away.

George Geerdts, 114 S. Brighton, recently returned from a 2-week trip to Memphis where he visited friends and relatives.

MR. AND MRS. A. L. Wilcox, 210 S. Brighton, are enjoying a visit from Mr. Wilcox's father, E. A. Wilcox of Independence, Mo.

Mrs. H. L. Hall, 907 S. Beverly, and Mrs. S. R. Price, 821 Beverly, were co-hostesses at a luncheon and bridge for 30 guests Tuesday, May 27.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hamilton, 127 Brighton, and their two children, Sue and Sandy, spent the Memorial day weekend at Lake Geneva.

Youth, 17, Killed; 24 Are Injured in Accidents

A 17-year-old youth was killed and 24 persons injured in 11 auto accidents during the past week in the unincorporated areas of Northwest Cook county.

The fatality and 13 of those injured occurred in six mishaps during the three-day Memorial Day holiday.

DENNIS LYNN, of 1432 Ford st., Des Plaines, a Maine township high school student, was killed when the auto which he was driving crashed into a Cook county forest preserve sign on Euclid ave. east of River rd. Sunday afternoon.

Two companions, James Pedtke, 17, of 3233 Palmer ave., Chicago, and Harold Carbine, no address given, were reported in serious condition in Resurrection hospital when their auto rolled over several times. The 1953 model car was a total loss, Cook county deputies said.

A few days earlier, Wednesday, May 28, at the River rd. and Euclid intersection west of the fatal accident scene, two women were injured in a three-car collision.

Taken to Resurrection hospital were Margaret T. Dye, 49, of 1318 N. Chicago, Arlington Heights, and Vivian Lenheim, 42, of 318 N. Beverly, Arlington Heights.

ACCORDING TO Cook county police, a car driven by Margaret Dye was slowing down on River rd. for the Euclid intersection when it was struck in the rear by a car driven by Earl C. Swinney Jr., 38, of 2137 Walnut, Waukegan, which was skidding on the pavement.

TRUCK DRIVER Lloyd Gibson, who escaped with minor injuries, inspects his vehicle after it overturned on Mt. Prospect rd. at the toll road when it hit a hole in the road and ran into a ditch Tuesday, May 24.

The jolt pushed the Dye vehicle into a car driven by Eldon R. Dollar, 31, of 1366 Perry, Des Plaines, which had stopped on Euclid for the stop sign. Damage to the Dollar car was estimated at $500, damage to the Swinney auto at $200 and to the Dye vehicle at $400.

Four persons were injured and taken to Resurrection hospital when two cars collided at Milwaukee ave. and Winkleman rd. Tuesday, May 27.

Injured were Irene Sommers, 46, of 5455 Roscoe, Chicago, Helen Cotter, 56, of 5347 W. North ave., Chicago, Harriett Brown, 56, of 3127 N. Marmora, Chicago, and Marilyn A. Casey, 32, of 806 N. Maple, Arlington Heights.

The Casey car, according to deputies, crashed into the Sommers car when the Sommers car made a left turn. The 1952 model Casey car was a total loss and damage was set at $600 on the Sommers vehicle.

FOUR PERSONS were injured, three requiring hospitalization, Friday in a rear-end collision on Golf rd. at the Illinois toll road.

Margaret Xanders, 33, of Route 1, Wheaton, was taken to St. Charles hospital by her husband, Ersom L., 34. Taken to Sherman hospital in Elgin were John Pierron, 13, and Ann Pierron, 18, both of 195 Park ave., Glen Ellyn. To see his own doctor was Lawrence Pierron Jr., 18, of the Glen Ellyn address.

State police said a car driven by Ersom Xanders slowed for holes in the Golf rd. pavement when it was struck by an auto driven by Lawrence Pierron. Pierron was charged with following too close in traffic.

Three persons were taken to Resurrection hospital Wednesday, May 28, in a two-car collision at Illinois 83 and Landmeier rd. Injured were Forrest Booth, 28, of 789 New York, Aurora, Ill., Bartis Robinson, 789 New York, Aurora, and Natividad Rodriguez, 34, State and Algonquin rd., Arlington Heights.

State police reported the northbound Booth auto turned west in front of the Rodriguez auto. Booth was ticketed with making an improper left turn. Damage to the Booth auto was assessed at $550 and to the Rodriguez car at $500.

TWO YOUNG MEN escaped serious injury Sunday when their auto went through a stop sign at Bradwell and Barrington rds. and crashed into a tree.

Peter R. Treat, 22, of 121 Grant st., Barrington, and Duanne H. Grom, 22, of 209 Franklin, Barrington, were to have seen their own doctor. Treat was issued a ticket for disobeying a stop sign. Damage to the auto was estimated at $900.

Louis Stone, 34, of 109 Green st., Carpentersville, and his wife, Joann, were injured Friday when their car was struck head-on by another driven by Phillip R. Cooper, 25, of 270 N. State st., Elgin, on Illinois 59 north of Irving Park rd. State troopers gave Cooper a ticket for driving on the wrong side of the highway.

Thomas Martinjak, 30, of 925 W. Fletcher, Chicago, and his 11-month-old son, Thomas Jr., were injured and to see their own doctor when their auto struck a wandering cow on Algonquin rd. near Roselle rd. Friday.

Robert L. Biddulph, 27, of 321 Chandler, Elmhurst, was treated by a Mt. Prospect physician Sunday after his car crashed through a barricade on Elmhurst rd. south of Oakton.

Biddulph was ticketed for driving too fast for conditions and failure to stop at a stop sign.

Damage to the car was placed at $200.

LLOYD T. GIBSON, 30, Northwest hotel, Des Plaines, was slightly injured when his truck hit a hole in Mt. Prospect rd. at the toll road, ran into a ditch and overturned. He was to have seen his own doctor.

Candy Woods, 16, of 28 S. Quentin rd., Palatine received minor injuries Wednesday, May 28, when her car left Shoe Factory rd., hit a ditch and came to stop in a pond. She reported her car went out of control when it hit a bump in the pavement.

Service Set For Church

A special children's worship service will be featured this summer during the same hour adults of Our Redeemer Lutheran church, Prospect Heights, hold their services, 9:30 a.m. Sundays.

Theme of the children's services is learning to know Jesus through movies, under the direction of Edward Wacholz and Mrs. Earl Olsen. Speaking from past experience, Wacholz stated such movies can do a great deal to guide and direct the character of children.

Group singing of religious songs will also be an important part of summer services for children. (ACM

Music-on-Stage Elects Officers

Music-on-Stage held its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Hausman, Prospect Heights, May 28.

Reelected as president of the group was Jack Wassmer, Palatine and the post of treasurer will again be filled by Alfred Loll, Arlington Heights. New vice president, who will be scheduled to fill the president's position next year, is Robert Read, Arlington Heights. Secretary is Mrs. Raymond Blakeman, Prospect Heights.

MUSIC - ON - STAGE, as its name implies, is an organization whose purpose is to present musical performances in public, using the talents of the membership in these presentations. Giving of an annual operetta or musical comedy is their chief aim each year, but they are interested in performing shorter musical skits or providing musical interludes for other organizations or groups who would like to include such in their yearly programs. Program chairmen, if interested in this "Talent Bank" service, may call the president, Fl. 8-1250.

Always interested in increasing the size of the group, Music-on-Stage issues an invitation to any one who likes to sing -in chorus or solo-, to any person who would like to act in an operetta, or to someone who enjoys designing scenery or costumes, or any other back stage function, to join the group. A note or call to the secretary, Mrs. Blakeman, 28 Stonegate Dr. East, Prospect Heights, Le. 7-1645, will insure that a notice of the time and place of the next meeting will be sent to the one interested in participating or just getting acquainted with the organization before deciding.

Next spring's presentation will be the "Fortune Teller" by Victor Herbert. (B8

Establish Speed Limits For New Toll Highways

Traffic regulations for Illinois' 187-mile tollway, adopted here Monday by the Illinois State Toll Highway Commission, provide for a minimum speed limit of 40 miles per hour for the entire tollway for all vehicles and maximum speed limits ranging from 60 to 70 miles per hour for passenger cars.

Charles L. Dearing, executive director of the commission, said that the tollway traffic regulations are in general conformance with the Illinois Motor Vehicle Law and the Illinois Uniform Act regulating traffic on highways and are subject to review by the attorney general.

"SPEED restrictions have been set with the emphasis on the side of safety," he said. "Design of the entire tollway with its wide lanes, shoulders, gentle curves and grades, and long sight distances has been keyed to safe driving. These speed limits will further contribute to safety."

Speed limits for passenger cars for various sections are as follows: Northwest tollway from Elgin to South Beloit — 70 mph; Northwest tollway from Elgin to O'Hare airport — 65 mph; East-West tollway from Congress Street expressway connection to Aurora — 65 mph; and Tri-State tollway from Indiana to Wisconsin, 60 mph.

The speed limit for busses on all routes is 60 mph and for all trucks, 55 mph. Speeds for all vehicles on ramps at interchanges is 35 mph and for all vehicles in service areas, 20 mph.

BECAUSE OF THE inherent high-speed characteristics of the tollway, pedestrians, bicycles, motor scooters, animal-drawn vehicles, and farm machinery will not be permitted. As an additional safety measure, vehicles which are incapable of maintaining the minimum speed limit of 40 mph and those in a poor condition or lacking proper equipment will also be barred from entering the tollway or will be escorted off.

Under the tollway's traffic code persons who violate the laws are guilty of a misdemeanor and are punishable by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $500.

The tollway will be policed by a detachment of the Illinois State police, especially trained in patroling high-speed limited-access expressways, and under the direction of Captain Albert S. Hinds. The tollway police detachment will be headquartered in the administration building near Hinsdale and will have local quarters in each of the eight maintenance buildings located along the tollway system.

Q. If a great many wedding gifts have been received, wouldn't it be all right for the bride to mail out engraved cards of thanks?

A. Never! If a bride does not consider the gifts worth her time and effort to write personal notes of thanks, then it seems a shame that the donors devoted any time and money to her.

Q. Is it all right for a young man to accept a cigarette offered to him by a girl?

A. This is quite all right.

The James Colvins came from all directions to meet at the Plaza in New York City last week. Mr. Colvin flew up from Miami; Mrs. Colvin and Steve flew from here; and Tim motored from Amhurst, Mass., where he finished his first year of college. While there, they enjoyed seeing old friends, the Don McIntoshs of Hubbard Woods, Ill. Mr. McIntosh's sister lives here in Arlington Heights. Because Mr. Colvin is a member of the Harvard club, they were able to get canceled tickets to "Music Man," which won them over completely. Mrs. Colvin says it was a gem, and Robert Preston, completely out of character, stole the show. Although Tim will be home for the summer, he is leaving Saturday for the Shattuck school centennial. Shattuck is his alma mater.

The rain didn't spoil the John Aulds' weekend. Friday Mr. Auld marched in the Memorial day parade in Park Ridge. Afterward he and Mrs. Auld, along with the delegation from the legion, took the guest speakers to lunch at Morton House: General Lawrence Whiting, retired, and Captain McDonald, USN, Glenview.

Saturday night Mr. Auld was master of ceremonies at a testimonial party and dance for the fourth district VFW commander, W. O. Sandburg, who is leaving the state to reside in California.

THE T. C. CARLSONS, 1314 N. Harvard, had a picnic in their back yard Memorial day with his brother and his wife, the A. Carlsons of Niles. Pat Carlson came with them and brought her date.

Last Saturday there was a birthday party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Kenyon, 1226 Clarendon. Jean was 9 and invited eight friends from Ridge school to a cook-out in her yard. After they had cake and ice cream, the girls had just enough time to play a few games before the rains came.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. House, 1120 N. Harvard, are enjoying having her parents, the W. R. Rosengrens, with them for two weeks. The graduation of two of their grandchildren lured them here from their home in DeSota Lakes, Sarasota, Fla. The second half of their visit will be spent with the James Pooles, 1106 N. Princeton.

FROM RIDGE PARK

Al Snap's mother, Mrs. Albert Snap, and his brother, Lee, have been visiting Norma and Al for a few days. They took this time to come as it fell between exams at the University of Illinois, where Lee is a sophomore. Before Mrs. Snap and Lee left for Freeport, they all went to Kankakee river state park Memorial day, where they met Norma's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Tanner, for a picnic.

The rainy weekend didn't bother the Larry Stockings either. They were at Baraboo, Wis. with Nan's folks.

The Cas Nastals took part of their vacation to drive to Detroit to visit his sister and brother and their families.

Twenty-two young Presbyterians met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Merle Paul Sunday to hear Roger Kellogg give a few ideas on what to expect from a Christian vocation. Three ministers from the Presbyterian church were there too. The Pauls' daughter, Ardeth, is finishing her sophomore year at Milliken university and will be here until June 14, when she will leave for Estes Park, Colo. She will work at "The Craig's," one of the large hotels in the park, during the summer.

JUNE 1 WAS the day the Donald Kiehls chose for the christening of their son, Randall Scott in Faith Lutheran church. He was born May 6. Godparents were Mr. T. W. Hames of Mt. Prospect and Stanley Sieburg of Arlington Heights. Afterward there was a family dinner for the sponsors and grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Black, 812 N. Kaspar, went to Purdue university to see their son, Charles, graduate from the school of engineering science. Charles' wife, Karen, has just completed her sophomore year at Northwestern.

Donna Braunsreuter was in the music recital at St. James church Sunday night, much to the delight of her parents, the H. A. Braunsreuters, 731 N. Kennicott. Donna has been studying music for 1½ years at St. James.

Roberta Buechner selected "Ave Maria" for her contribution to the St. James recital. Her parents are the Robert C. Buechners, 1012 N. Fernandez. Roberta is a seventh grader at St. James.

THINGS HAVE been buzzing at the home of the W. F. Hannums, 1020 N. Fernandez. His mother, Mrs. Roy Hannum visited from Ottumwa, Iowa and they will have her father, J. M. Pettigrew, of Sioux Falls, S.D., with them until after Mark's graduation from the eighth grade next Friday.

The Warren Holmes were as happy as her parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Boman, when they knew her brother and family, the Robert Bomans of Minneapolis would visit them over the holiday. There was a barbecue at the Holmes' for the family and the rest of the time was spent at her parents' home.

The John Donahues' oldest son, Tommy, helped make the boys' choir a success at the recital at St. James Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Molitor, 920 N. Salem, have two graduations this week. John graduates from the high school Thursday night and Lois from the junior high Friday night. So there will be two parties: one after John's graduation and one after Lois'.

DAVE BUTTS, son of the Basil Butts, and next door neighbors of the Molitors, will also graduate from the high school. The Butts are going out to celebrate after the exercises.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Richard Platt, 806 N. Kennicott, and their children spent the day in Chicago at the home of her parents, the H. O. Kieselbachs'. It was Mrs. Kieselbach's birthday.

The Robert Hadden home is quieting down after a wedding weekend. Her sister, Michaelyn LaMargo, was married to Bob Erber Saturday in Faith Lutheran church. The couple is now honeymooning in the Smokies.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Dunn felt her mother and step father's visit from San Diego was too short, but they crowded in a lot of talking between Saturday and Tuesday night. Betty's sister, Mrs. Roy Isbell of Long Beach, came with them.

The Bob Reads said goodbye to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Read, of Wellesley Hills, Mass., Sunday after having spent a long holiday weekend with them. During their visit they enjoyed a lobster cookout in the yard and also took the senior Reads to Old Orchard for a day.

"School officials said that past service by Tinsley had not been completely satisfactory."

Models Double As Thespians; Plan Comedy

Students of the Lu Staahl Studio of Dramatics and Modeling, Arlington Heights, performed before an audience of parents and friends at a fashion show-tea May 24 at Recreation Park. The performance represented a portion of their recital program.

Remainder of the recital will be presented in the form of a 3-act comedy based on the fairy-tale, "Sleeping Beauty," to be shown twice at Miner school, Arlington Heights, on Father's day. Two different casts will perform at 2 and 4 p. m. and the public is invited.

THE STYLE SHOW was unique in that each model provided her own wardrobe for from two to three varied showings and each commentated for a partner. All speeches were extemporaneous.

Outstanding among the poised models, ranging from tots to teens, were Karen Williams and Diane Thorsen of Arlington Heights and Niki Abrams and Sandi Hapke of Palatine who closed the show wearing formals. Holding his own for the boys' department was 4-year-old Gregory Krol of Arlington Heights.

THE PROGRAM, managed back stage by teenager, Lynn Smith of Arlington Heights, was interspersed with light comedy skits and readings by members of the boys' department. Participating were Randy Opela, Rick Hula, Jim Zimmerman, Jim Staahl and Jeff Huebner.

Rick Hawley of Arlington Heights furnished the background music at the piano.

Judicial Reform

The United Church Women of Illinois, the United Church Women of Greater Chicago, the executive committee of the Illinois Council of Churches, the Church Federation of Greater Chicago, the Christian Citizenship committee of the Oak Park-River Forest council of churches, and the diocesan council of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago have announced their support of the Blue Ballot judicial amendment to be submitted to voters at the November 4 general election.

Gilbert H. Scribner Jr., chairman of the committee for modern courts, the citizens group working for adoption of the amendment, said that the support of these church groups is part of a growing tide of civic, labor, professional, and business organizations which recognize the need for court modernization.

"CHURCH GROUPS as well as women's organizations and social welfare groups indicate particular interest in the court system as it pertains to the family," Scribner said.

"Today's problems of divorce, dependency and delinquency just cannot be properly handled by our civil war era court system," he explained. "Right now, in certain areas of Illinois, a family squabble can snowball into a series of actions in eight different courts. There is no single, effective way for the present court system to protect victims of family difficulty.

"Adoption of the Blue Ballot judicial amendment will make possible one properly staffed family division of the Circuit court," he went on. "This will replace the confusion that is so unfair to thousands of innocent children."

"The Blue Ballot judicial amendment is a moral issue," Scribner said. "Clearly, our court system as it stands today inflicts unnecessary injustice on the people of Illinois. To deny the change proposed by the amendment is to deny equal justice through modern courts."

Enjoying the long weekend were the Louis Sylvesters, who drove to Half Moon Lake, Milltown, Wis., for fishing. However, the fish were not agreeable and none were caught. On the trip home they stopped at the Wisconsin Dells and took a boat trip to see the sights.

THE SENIOR and junior Richard Sachtschales spent the holidays visiting relatives in Independenee and Hazeltown, Iowa. They attended several parties, but due to the storm the family picnic was called off.

The Clyde House family made a trip to Cincinnati to visit the William Whitelaws, formerly from Wedgewood. They spent a day sightseeing and visiting Coney Island Amusement center and also took a short trip into Kentucky. The weather conditions were perfect and the scenery beautiful.

The Tom Merritt family took an educational trip to the Field Museum and had a picnic supper.

Saturday Ken Reed gave his sister, Janet, in marriage to Ferman Fox in St. Nicholia church, Chicago.

The next meeting of the Triangle club will be Tuesday, June 10, at 8 p.m., in the home of Mrs. Joe Heckenback, 308 Meadow lane. Mrs. Armand Santarelli is co-hostess. (AM

Library Offers Summer Reading for Youngsters

For a summer of fun, excitement, and profit, youngsters are invited to join in the summer reading program offered by Arlington Heights Memorial library. Registrations will be accepted from June 12 through June 21.

The program is designed to serve purposes. The first is to provide entertainment while children are relaxing from more strenuous activities.

Participation in the program will also enable children to retain and strengthen the reading skills which they have acquired during the school year. Finally, reading is also a very satisfactory way in which to add to one's knowledge and experience in many and varied fields.

TWO CLUBS ARE available: the Apple Tree club for kindergarten and grades one, two and three, and the Solar System club for grades four through eight. Upon registration each child will receive a folder containing a list of suggested books, a copy of the plans for his reading, and a sample of the blanks on which to record the books read.

A certificate and a book register will be prepared for each child. On these the library will keep a record of the child's reading. During the week of September 2, children who have completed the program may pick up their certificates and registers at the library.

If a child does not have a library card, he may obtain one by getting an application card at the library and having his parents sign it. (A

"A BAD BEGINNING MAKES A BAD ENDING"
*(Author's Name Below)

The beginning of an illness is the best time it may be more quickly cured. Serious sickness has not yet taken full hold.

Some people begin badly by either neglecting to take care of themselves or attempting self treatment. Unless they are lucky, sickness time is prolonged and sometimes life, itself, is endangered.

A quicker, happier ending to any sickness is almost assured if you consult your physician quickly and take the specific medicines he may prescribe for your particular trouble.

HI-FI GOO

Listening to hi-fi enthusiasts talk, you would swear that every other word is nonsense unless you're one of them. For example: a Mac Intosh isn't an apple, it's a brand of amplifier; the speaker is a 'squawker'; the bass type is a 'woofer' and the high treble is a 'tweeter'. The 'wiggles' and the 'wow', the "flutter' and the 'RPM' all have something to do with the turntable. If you're thoroughly confused by this time, then you're not a complete addict to the hi-fi frenzy. When you finally succumb to this neurosis, you are an "audiophilia'.

We're treating all variations of Hi-Fi disorder at LANDWEHR TV besides the lesser record and tape recorders, portable equipment, radio and, of course our mainstay, television. Phone CL 5-0700 for professional electronic services.

Family Service Helps People with Problems

(Second in a Series of articles on Northwest Family Service association).

Husbands, it seems, are likely to forget their wives need food you can't buy at the supermarket.

And demanding, domineering wives can shrivel their husbands and sour their marriages.

A husband who was a butcher said plaintively: "She won't even let me get the blood off my shoes before she is after me to start making a fuss."

And these are comments of unhappy wives:

"He never tells me he loves me."

"He never even notices the things I do to make him comfortable."

"I can't spend my life being treated like a machine."

AND THE HUSBANDS of these women?

"I don't know what all the fuss is about."

"Sure I love her. I married her, didn't I? Do I have to notice every meal, every new dress, every hairdo?"

These are the kind of people and problems that daily confront Northwest Family Service.

Take the typical example of a middle-income wife whose husband was a shop foreman.

She tried to make things nice at home, but she just couldn't on her husband's salary, she said. He was disgusted that she wasn't a better manager and had nothing but scorn for her.

They came to Family Service for counseling.

WHAT MADE MRS. X feel like a failure? How did her husband show his scorn?

"He doesn't even talk to me," she said. "He shows his scorn by ignoring me."

A little more questioning revealed that her husband never took her anywhere, never did anything with her, never said anything personal or tender. "I just might as well not be there," she said finally, in tears.

"I like her fine," her husband said. "But I'm too beat to go right out again or start making a fuss over her. I've been around people all day. I just want to sit and look at the TV. Why can't she?"

The counselor explained that his wife was tired, too, and alone all day. All she wanted was to have her life made a little more fun.

The husband agreed to a pitiful bit of attention — and this made the wife's despair over money and her inability to be a good housekeeper evaporate. All she had to know was that her husband was willing to take a little trouble for her.

NORTHWEST FAMILY Service is a professional case work service to individuals and families who have problems of one kind or another which they are unable to solve themselves.

In short: Family Service helps people think their problems through.

"There are times when we can't solve our personal problems by ourselves, and we need outside help," explained Gerald M. Chapman, the association's first president. "Friends and relatives try to be helpful but they aren't trained in working out such problems — and they can't be really objective. At a time like this, a professionally-trained person can fill a real need. If we're physically ill, we go to a physician. By the same token, if we are ill with an emotional or personality problem, we should seek professional help."

What does Family Service do?

Mostly, the counselor guides discussion, helps to explore the problem, assists in evaluating the couple's feeling about the problem. Through the relationship with the counselor, the family finds ways in which attitudes can be modified and situations relieved.

Requests for help from Family Service are primarily concerned with problems of family relationship: marital difficulties, parent-child problems, personality adjustments, unmarried motherhood. Other problems cover a range of dilemmas, including budget planning, educational and vocational counseling, mentally retarded children, housekeeping, legal, or old age problems.

Northwest Family Service, desperately under-staffed, is being swamped with requests for help.

As a privately-supported agency, it is dependant upon donations from interested citizens for its existence. Meager purse strings have handicapped the agency in meeting the fuller needs of an expanding community.

THE AGENCY is averaging 30 requests a month.

With only one counselor — who also services as director, assuming full responsibility for all administrative detail — the agency is literally "snowed-under."

When a request comes in, the director evaluates the problem. If it is a matter of helping a family in a time of crisis, she acts immediately. But if it's a long-term marital problem requiring weekly counseling over an extended period of time, she must give the couple several alternatives:

—if they wish to make use of Family Service's facilities, they must go on a waiting list and await their turn. At the present time, couples who applied in February are still waiting for counseling;

—if they are eligible, they can make use of counseling facilities offered by Catholic Charities, Lutheran Social Service, and other church agencies;

—if they can afford to pay for counseling and want immediate help, they can go to the Association for Family Living in Chicago;

—if it is essentially a parent-child problem, they can be referred to school counselors; or —if they are a resident of Palatine township, they can make use of Elgin community clinic.

"We used to feel that only the weak sought help," declared Chapman. "Now we recognize that in order to receive help, the individual must be strong enough to recognize his problem and want to do something about it. It's the weak who refuse to recognize a problem or pretend it doesn't exist."

(NEXT WEEK: Why do suburbs need a Family Service? What are the unique problems of the middle classes?) (B8

Di Mucci Hearing Is Today

County zoning authorities will hold a public hearing at 5 p.m. today for petitions filed by Mt. Prospect builder Salvatore Di-Mucci.

DiMucci wants approval for a subdivision of 540 homes and "several hundred" apartments at Camp McDonald and River rds., Wheeling township.

The hearing will be held in Arlington Heights village hall.

AN IMPORTANT issue in the rezoning is school aid since the development will "over burden" school facilities in the two districts serving the area.

John Nowicki, president of Feehanville district school board, and Ernest Stavros, president of Wheeling school board, will attend the hearing and inform county authorities of the school problems. (ACM

GEORGE HARRIS

I suppose you folks have been planning your vacation trips now that it is this time of the year, which always gives me a chance to talk to you about cameras.

It just doesn't seem like a real vacation to me unless I capture most of the trip on film, and I'm certain that most of you will agree. The lovely mountain scenery, the beauty of the mountain brooks, the formation of the desert sands and many other scenic beauties can remain with you always, if you will but take a camera and plenty of film. Don't return from a vacation with lots of regrets; come back with loads of pictures that you may relive.

We have been having some "specials" on cameras and they are really good buys. Maybe it seems like a lot of bother to carry a camera and rolls of film, but if you don't get those pictures, you'll be sorry. Have lots of fun on your vacation.

Sportscar Fun Turns Hobby Into Profitable Business

TINKERING with his pet sportscar is Harvey Carsten Weiss. Designed and built by Weiss, the low-slung Carsten is 34 inches high, 13 feet 10 inches long, and 61 inches wide; wheel base, 104¼ inches.

by R. B. FREVERT

It's the happy lot of Harvey Carsten Weiss, 4750 Forest View dr., Wheeling township, to turn a longtime hobby, cars, into a business sideline, dubbed "Customs by Carsten."

"There are very few things on wheels I haven't driven, including foreign sportscars," boasts Weiss.

Highlight of the business will be Weiss's special baby, the "Carsten," a sportscar he designed and built from scratch.

Specifications show the Carsten has a top speed of 120 mph, will go from 0 to 60 miles mph in six seconds, has a taxable hp. of 44, and weights 2020 pounds.

THE SPORTSCAR took fourth place for general appearance and styling in the sportscar show at last year's state fair. Weiss said he intends to enter it in races this year at Wilmot and Elkhart.

Weiss disclosed his business will specialize in body work for all types of cars, American as well as foreign, plus building sportscars to order. He also said he designs and makes a lot of the equipment which will be used to repair and build autos.

For the past 10 years, the husky sportscar enthusiast has been employed at Littelfuse, Des Plaines, manufacturers of automotive parts. Weiss said he designs, builds, and maintains all machinery used by the firm.

Heart of "Customs by Carsten" will be a gleaming, trussless all steel shop resembling an oversized quonset-hut located on N. Wolf rd., Wheeling, not far south of the intersection of Milwaukee ave. and Wolf.

The structure is 50 by 54 feet in area, has a 17 foot clear ceiling, and three doors. Equipment will include an overhead crane.

GEORGE SAWISCH, of Des Plaines, will be employed full time at the shop. Whenever he has time, Weiss will be around to indulge in his favorite pastime tinkering with chassis and motors. He said he intends to add three or four more mechanics at a later date.

Within six months a brick and cement block salesroom, 50 by 30 feet, will be added to the front of the shop.

Weiss said he will carry sportscars and small, economy foreign cars. Owner of a Volkswagen and Skoda, he is confident the economy car is here to stay.

ANOTHER WEISS specialty is restoring and building exact replicas of antique autos. Some years ago he built a 1914 Stutz-Bearcat which won the grand championship at the 1953 Downers Grove antique car show.

Also in 1953, he restored a 1916 Oldsmobile, which later went on display at the Ford museum, Dearborn, Mich.

Weiss is a member of the Model T Ford club and the Northshore Sportscar club.

Son of a shipbuilder who originally came from Denmark, Weiss does not confine his talents to landlocked vehicles. He has also built cabin cruisers.

This master of several trades said he and his wife and daughters, Susan, 14, and Lorraine, 18, designed and built their own home. This includes a swimming pool in the spacious back yard.

MARRIED 21 YEARS, Mr. and Mrs. Weiss came to the Northbrook area some 20 years ago. Weiss met his wife, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., while studying at Pratt's institute, Brooklyn. He has a degree in mechanical engineering.

Recalling his eventful youth spent at Lake Ronkomkoma, Long Island, Weiss said he drove motorcycles, motorbikes, and fire trucks (he was a fire department mascot), as well as cars.

Mr. and Mrs. Weiss have become experienced at catching the massauga rattler (pigmy) common to the area around Dam number two and Dam number four woods. Mrs. Weiss is credited with catching the biggest one, about 30 inches long and pregnant, some three years ago near her own back yard. The snake was presented to Marlin Perkins, former director of Lincoln Park zoo.

Weiss is a deputy Cook county forest preserve ranger, and has gained a reputation for going after "litter bugs." Last year he arrested more than any other ranger.

Drops Bad Check Charge

Charges were dropped Thursday against a man Arlington Heights police had sought for questioning in connection with an alleged check fraud.

Daniel H. Olsen, 35, whose last known address was Yorkville, Ill., had been sought on an open charge. Two weeks ago, Ralph Bruns, of the realty firm of Bruns and Payne, 1306 W. Northwest hwy., told police that merchandise he had ordered through Olsen on March 29, and paid for with a $300 check, had not arrived. Olsen was a salesman for an advertising display firm and Bruns had ordered 24 advertising signs.

Last week the merchandise arrived, police were told, and the charge was dropped. (A

THE BIG IDEA OF RELIGION

How many religious people seem to miss the big idea in religion! Abraham Lincoln said he would join a church when he found one recognizing love of God and love of one's neighbors as the fundamentals. These were the fundamentals in the teaching of Jesus and Paul. Harry Emerson Fosdick said he was a fundamentalist liberal. He wanted to hold to the big ideas of Christianity in a tolerant spirit.

CHRISTIAN MOTHER

Two mothers stood at the entrance to a coal mine, where a terrible accident had occurred. Each had a son trapped somewhere in the mine. The one mother was hysterical, the other calm and quiet. When asked how she could be so undisturbed, she replied:

"My comfort is this: my son was a devout Christian. If he has been killed, he is with God in heaven, where I shall soon meet him. If he is alive, then God is with him and will bring him safely back to me."

Fortunate lad to have such a mother! She had prepared him for life. But, more important, she had prepared him for death!

It took years of teaching and training, years of a consistently good example on the part of the mother, to prepare for that fateful hour. She had prayed—and she had taught her little boy to pray. She had gone to church—and she had taken him along Sunday after Sunday.

He was her son, but she had brought him to Baptism so that God might make him His son. She had told him about the love and promises of Christ and encouraged him day after day to place his faith in the Savior. In order to receive forgiveness for their sins and to strengthen their faith, she and her son had gone side by side to partake of the Lord's Supper frequently.

And so it was not an accident that she could now stand calm and undisturbed at the entrance to the mine in the face of terrible disaster. She had done her duty as a Christian mother. Her son was safe in his Savior's keeping. Is yours?

13th District Voters Tell Views On Issues to Congresswoman

An extensive sampling of opinion in the 13th Congressional district shows that voters have firm convictions on many critical and controversial issues.

The survey, taken by the office of Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church, drew responses from 5171 people. Questionaires were mailed to every seventh householder in the district.

OTHER CONGRESSMEN, who have conducted similar polls, considered the large percentage of response extraordinary.

In general, voters in the district spoke out in favor of further Federal Reserve Board action to stimulate the economy, a sharp cut in foreign aid, improvement in relations with Russia, a plan for expansion of educational facilities and a reduction in direct government competition with free enterprise.

On the subject of economy, 57.5 percent favored and 24.5 percent disapproved further action by the Reserve Board to increase the availability of credit and to reduce interest rates. A tax cut was turned down, 42 per cent to 41 per cent. A public works program also was disfavored by a small percentage margin, 44 to 33.

SIXTY-THREE per cent favored a balanced budget this year even if it is possible only through a reduction in spending for various domestic programs. Thirty-two per cent voted against this plan.

On foreign aid, 47 per cent asked a sharp cut, 26 per cent favored continuation at present levels, 18 per cent favored an end to the overseas programs and only five per cent called for an expansion.

Three questions were devoted to relations with Russia.

In one, a healthy 87.5 per cent majority called for an agreement to increase cultural, technical, educational and sports exchanges. Only 11 per cent voted against this plan.

ON THE ADVISABILITY of a summit conference, those in favor represented 59.5 per cent. Thirty-one per cent saw no need for such a conference.

The third question on Russia asked the voters whether the U.S. should continue efforts to effect an end to the arms race and an inspection of arms plants and military sites. This was favored by 82 per cent. Fifteen per cent voted "no" and three per cent had no opinion.

Questions on education brought out a wide range of opinion. They were:

1. Do you approve a continued reliance on local and state support of education?

Yes	No	No Opinion
64%	5%	31%

2. Do you approve federal grants to states for school construction?

Yes	No	No Opinion
29%	18%	53%

3. Do you favor direct government aid through federal scholarships?

Yes	No	No Opinion
19%	20%	61%

4. Do you favor providing some method, perhaps through tax benefits, for individuals and business to finance expanded education?

Yes	No	No Opinion

THIS SERIES OF questions on schools was followed by one dealing with decentralization of government powers. The question was:

"Do you favor gradual transfer back to the states and local communities of complete responsibility for local needs (particularly in the fields of education, health, slum clearance, highways, old-age assistance, disaster relief, etc., assuming a transfer of some tax sources from the federal government to states and local communities)?"

This transfer of power was favored by a thumping majority of 69.5 per cent. Only 26.5 per cent voted no and four per cent had no opinion.

Another question that brought out a firm conviction was: "Should the federal government continue to reduce its direct competition with private enterprise?" This reduction was favored by 86.4 per cent, disfavored by 10.3 per cent. Only 3.3 per cent had no opinion.

A MAJORITY OF 65.5 per cent said "no" to any limitation of Supreme Court jurisdiction involving internal security and subversive activities. Twenty-seven per cent favored limitation and only 7.5 per cent had no opinion.

Forty-nine per cent saw no need for a revision of the Taft-Hartley labor act while 34 per cent thought some changes should be made. Seventeen per cent had no opinion.

Sixty-nine per cent favored removal of present temporary increases in excise taxes. This was disfavored by 26 per cent. Five per cent had no opinion.

Court Backs Up Village Licenses

"The door is opened to the licensing (by municipalities) of all forms of business for the purpose of obtaining revenue."

Those are the words of Justice Byron House in his dissenting opinion last week on a ruling by the state supreme court that municipalities, no matter how small, have the right to license masonry and cement contractors if the fees are used to help defray inspection and regulation costs.

In Arlington Heights, J. Ward Wright, acting village manager, interprets the ruling as backing up the village's claim to license all contractors, working in the village.

THE COURT'S five to two decision was on a petition by the Concrete Contractors association of Greater Chicago against municipalities licensing its 300 members. An association official says it will seek a rehearing and if that fails will go to the federal court.

Wright says the village will "now crackdown" on collecting fees from contractors and he estimates that it may realize close to $4,000 more in fees this year.

Wright estimated that about 1,000 contractors of all types perform work in the village from time to time and they should pay an average fee of $22. So far this year, he said, only 360 contractors have been licensed at fees ranging from $15 to $30.

He hopes that enforcement of the court's decision will result in the issuance of a couple hundred licenses more this year. Because of spot work it would not be possible to license every contractor working the village, he said.

WRIGHT NOTED in a recent report that business license revenue has decreased annually during the past three fiscal years because licensing of contractors is "no longer strictly enforced."

The supreme court decision set aside an injunction, issued by a Cook county superior court judge, restraining LaGrange Park and Brookfield from licensing masonry and cement contractors. (AF

'Come Casual' Promotion At Market

Arlington Market will be as casual as your backyard today, Friday and Saturday as merchants join in a "come as you are" promotion.

Clerks will don shorts, sport shirts, slacks and sandals for the event. The idea is to assure customers they are welcome at the center of Kensington (Foundry) rd. in nearly any kind of duds - well, there are limits.

THE ROUGH ROADS and barren appearance of the center recently gave way to paved lanes and parking lot and a park atmosphere with trees and shrubbery. A pick-up lane in front of stores does away with a walk with the groceries.

Palatine Road Plans Revealed

The nation's concern over the recession may lead to a bigger and better Palatine rd.

Chief engineer Hugo S[illegible]'t this week told of plans to have Palatine rd. developed into a modern 2-lane highway, complete with overpasses. Plans for the seven mile project, which would cost something like $6 million, were disclosed last month when the county board added $7,200,000 to its 1958 road program.

BEHIND THE sudden interest in Palatine rd. is the federal government's attempt to beat the recession by introducing road programs in heavily populated areas where jobs may become scarce.

Under such a program, all contracts must be let by December 1 of this year, and jobs must be completed by December 1, 1959.

Modernization would take place between Rohlwing rd. in Palatine and the Des Plaines river. Overpasses are planned for Rand rd. (U. S. 12) Elmhurst rd. (Ill. 83). Soo line railroad tracks, and Milwaukee ave. (U. S. 45 and Ill. 21).

A FOUR LANE road was originally scheduled, but Stark said this was cancelled due to lack of funds, time needed to acquire right-of-way and an effort to get the project in under the federal "crash program."

Programming of the project has been submitted o the state. Final details must be forwarded to the state and federal governments for final approval.

Stark predicted approval for the plans and said he expected contracts to be let on the roadways by September 1.

Building Booms For Arlington

When the new home salesmen weren't telling the visitors how great the houses were last month, they were telling each other how great things are.

The talk in the trade was all good last month in Arlington Heights.

The volume of new home starts during the month of May was again the best of the year. Sixty-seven one-family home building permits were issued, almost half of them in the fast-growing Hasbrook subdivision on Palatine rd.

The number of permits for the year soared to 196, boosting home starts so far this year 43 per cent ahead of the same point last year. And it compared with 36 new homes in May, 1956 and 40 in May, 1955.

EACH MONTH of the current year there has been a sizeable increase in residential construction. January began with 19 permits and was followed by February with 28, March with 37, and April with 45.

Issuance of a permit for the construction of the Northwest Community hospital center with a permit cost of $1,800,000 easily put the month ahead for the year in permit totals.

The other large permits and valuations were: activity building for St. John United Church of Christ, $124,000. and Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association, $180,000. Total valuations were $3,469,401, according to building Commissioner Fred Hammer, Jr. (A

Village Architects OK Apartment Plans

The village architectural committee Tuesday approved plans for five apartment buildings, containing 24 units each, to be built on Dryden, across from Arlingotn Market.

The site is immediately south of Miner junior high school and is zoned for multiple dwelling units. The developer is Arlington Heights Apartments, inc., 33 N. LaSalle, Chicago, and the architect Robert Babbin, also of Chicago. (AF

FOUR ARLINGTON HEIGHTS eighth graders who will speak at graduation exercises at Arlington high school Friday evening are, from left, Jack McAuliffe, 14, of 417 Banbury, Lois Brown, 14, of 1323 W. Rev. Samuel Keys Accepts Call to St. Simon Church

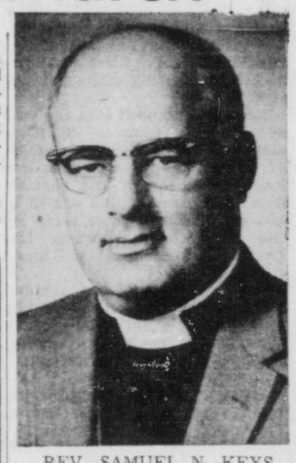
The Rev. Samuel N. Keys, Rector of St. Mary Church, Waynesville, Ohio, has accepted a call to become the first full-time vicar of the recently organized St. Simon Episcopal church, Arlington Heights. He has resigned his pastorate in Ohio, effective September 15, and plans to conduct his first service in Arlington Heights September 21.

St. Simon was organized as a mission last September 22, and already has a congregation numbering in excess of 300. It serves not only Arlington Heights but Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows and the surrounding unincorporated areas.

Services have been conducted in Arlington Heights South Junior high school gymnasium, with the Rev. E. Dargan Butt of Seabury-Western Theological seminary, Evanston, serving as vicar. Plans are being made now for the construction of a new church to be built on Kirchoff rd., Arlington Heights.



REV. SAMUEL N. KEYS

THE CONGREGATION is administered by a Bishop's committee consisting of M. F. Perkins, Mt. Prospect, chairman; John A. Beverley, Mt. Prospect, treasurer; Dr. Leslie H. Dix, Arlington Heights, clerk; Forrest E. Blose, Arlington Heights; Warren Broadbent, Mt. Prospect; Willard Nelson, Ralph Welton, William J. Plambeck and E. B. Smeed, all of Arlington Heights.

The Rev. Mr. Keys, who is 48, is a native of Hillsboro, Ohio. He received his education at Miami university, Oxford, Ohio; Purdue university; Ohio university; and Cedarville seminary, in Ohio. Prior to ordination, he was employed by the DuPont corporation in plant supervision, and by Armco Steel corporation in personal relations. He was ordained Deacon May 1, 1947, and priest October 10, 1948.

SINCE ORDINATION, the Rev. Mr. Keys has been rector of the Waynesville church, with the added duties for the past four years of priest-in-charge of St. Anthony mission and chaplain to college students in Wilmington, Ohio.

The Rev. Mr. Keys also was for eight years chairman of the Provincial department of Town and Country churches, and currently is still a member of this group. Since 1957 he has been president of the National Episcopal Rural Workers fellowship — a voluntary organization of clergy and laymen active throughout the United States and Canada — and previously was a director and vice president of the fellowship. He presently is a member of the advisory committee of the National Council of the Episcopal church reponsible for town and country church work.

The Rev. and Mrs. Keys plan to move to Arlington Heights in late summer. They have two children, Lt. Peter L. Keys, recently discharged from the Marine Corps, and Miss Janet Keys, a member of this year's graduating class at Hanover college, Hanover, Ind. (A

Gravel Pit Owner Wins Court Plea

Landowners, including gravel pit operators, have unlimited rights to pump water out of the ground for their own use even though this may interfere with the water supply of others, Judge John S. Sbarbaro has ruled in Superior court.

Judge Sbarbaro last week dismissed the lawsuit filed in 1956 by Herman J. Behrens and other farmers who had sought an injunction to restrain the L. A. Scharringhausen Material co. from using pumps to keep its 45-foot deep gravel pit on 60 acres free of water.

BEHRENS, OWNER of an adjoining 106-acre farm near Rohlwing and Higgins roads, Elk Grove township, and the others charged the pumping caused surrounding farm wells to run dry, young fruit trees to die, polluted Salt creek with sand and clay washed from the gravel, and adversely affected their crops.

Lowering the water table forced the farmers to sink deeper wells and employ larger pumps, they said.

In explaining why he ruled against the farmers, Judge Sbarbaro cited opinions handed down in similar cases by Supreme courts in the states of Illinois, Washington and New Jersey.

JUDGE SBARBARO said the groundwaters which the company draws from the gravel pit and discharges into the creek are "percolating waters" and that two principal rules govern their ownership and disposition in the United States — the "English rule" and the "reasonable user" doctrine.

In a 5-page memorandum opinion, Judge Sbarbaro, said the Illinois Supreme court "appears to have approved the so-called 'English rule' with respect to percolating waters" by holding in one case:

"Water which is the result of natural and ordinary percolation through the soil is part of the land itself and belongs absolutely to the owner of the land.

" . . . in the absence of any grant, he may intercept or impede such underground percolations, though the result be to interfere with the source of supply of springs or wells on adjoining premises."

APPLYING THIS rule, the Scharringhausen firm is free to collect ground water in the gravel pit and pump it out, said Judge Sbarbaro.

The allegation that the pumping has polluted Salt creek was not established by the weight of the evidence, Judge Sbarbaro said. He also held the farmers failed to establish "irreparable injury."

To the extent needed by them, the farmers have been able to assure themselves adequate well water, by extending the length of the pipes in their wells and by installing larger pumps, "the cost being comparatively nominal," he said.

George C. Rabens, the farmers' attorney, said the ruling will be appealed.

The farmers have won every court round except the last, Rabens said.

IN TWO SPECIAL reports, Alfred J. Cilella, Superior court master-in-chancery, following extensive hearings, recommended the court permanently enjoin the Scharringhausen firm from operating the big pumps. This was the first time a court ruling differed from the recommendation made by Cilella in his many years as a legal hearing officer, it was reported.

Rabens contended that the water shortage, common to many states, is "a community problem of tremendous impact because of industrialization of the countryside" and also that no one in an era of a falling water table has the right to drain water that flows underneath his neighbors' lands.

"For the good of the community, modern thought must hold that there is no ownership in these waters, but rather that they belong to all," Rabens argued.

HOW THE Washington Supreme court followed the "reasonable user" doctrine in settling a case involving a municipal gravel pit operated by the city of Seattle was cited by Judge Sbarbaro. The city was draining water from the gravel pit and the state tribunal, Judge Sbarbaro said, has this to say:

"The fact is well established that the city was making a reasonable use of its own property and that the drainage of the gravel pit was for the reasonable and proper purpose of extracting the gravel for use.

" . . . the city had under the reasonable and correlative rights doctrine a legal right to drain the gravel pit as to make the product available for use without thereby incurring any liability to others."

Judge Sbarbaro pointed out the New Jersey Supreme Court has held that a landowner may withdraw underground waters for any use that benefits the owners, with one limitation: The water may not be sold.

Here, the New Jersey tribunal said the reasonable use doctrine doesn't prevent any reasonable development of land "by mining or the like, although the underground water of neighboring properties may thus be interfered with or diverted.

"But it does prevent the withdrawal of underground waters for distribution or sale for uses not connected with any beneficial ownership or enjoyment of the land whence they are taken."

JUDGE SBARBARO said no matter whether the "English rule" or the reasonable user doctrine is followed, "the result is the same."

The Scharringhausen firm is "making a proper use of the land by mining or extracting the gravel, and is entitled to drain the gravel pit and dispose of the percolating waters, without being liable to the adjoining property owners for any alleged lowering of the ground water table, or lessening of the water supply available in the wells of such adjoining property owners."

A third rule, peculiar to arid states in the western part of the country, concerning such waters may be disregarded here, Judge Sbarbaro said without further explanation.

The Scharringhausen gravel pit fronts on Rohlwing road and is about 45 feet deep, except for a sump hole which is seven feet lower. The firm has been in the sand and gravel excavating business at the site for six years but only since March 14, 1956, has used at least two heavy-duty pumps to keep the pit free of water.

Behrens and the other farmers raise crops consisting mostly of corn, oats, hay, and soy beans. They also raise livestock. (B8

MINER SCHOOL STUDENTS Chuck Bobinette and Betty Mees were contestants in a classroom version of television's "21" quizdown this week.

TV Techniques Over Class Test

A classroom version of television's "21" quiz game is providing an entertaining sort of "final exam" for sixth graders at Miner school in Arlington Heights.

"The students had the idea themselves, built their own isolation booths and wrote their own questions," said teacher Allen Swanson.

BOOTHS ARE COMPLETE with air conditioning—a fan blows air through holes cut in the back and appropriate signs. A light in a box flashes "R" or "W" depending on whether the answer is correct or not. A buzzer sounds after 45 seconds and there is scarcely any "help" from the four quizmasters, Ardes Beisler, Sandy Johnson, Jill Anderson and Gail Miner. Points are awarded instead of money.

The quizdown will last all week, with each section of the class to crown a champion.

Formal year-end examinations aren't used in the schools but the informal type devised by the students fulfills somewhat the same function, explained principal Robert Campbell. The pupils wrote up 280 questions having to do with language arts and social studies.

THE QUESTIONS COVER the material learned during the entire year, so the students did considerable reviewing in drafting the questions.

Sample questions:

How did the Anglo-Saxons vote? By crashing their spears on their shields.

Who wrote "The Tale of the House of Usher"? Who else but E. A. Poe.

Liquor Hearing Tonight

Public hearings are scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight in Arlington Heights village hall on possible revocation of licenses of three package liquor stores.

Mayor Edward G. Carlisle, village liquor control commissioner, will conduct the hearings. Stores involved are Garden liquor mart, 401 S. State rd., Parkway liquors, 17 E. Campbell, and Westgate Walgreen agency drugs, 1717 W. Campbell.

A CLERK AT the garden liquor mart was acquitted on a charge of selling alcoholic beverages to a minor some weeks ago. A second case involving alleged sale of beer to a minor by a clerk at Parkway will come to trial June 14.

Trial was to have been held Wednesday morning on a similar case involving a clerk at Westgate drugs but the village requested and was granted a continuance to June 18. Police Chief L. W. Calderwood asked for the continuance in order to have a court reporter at the trial. The liquor franchise at the Walgreen's is not owned by the drug store but operates on a lease arrangement.

The village board Tuesday reduced the age for purchase of alcoholic beverages by females from 21 to 18 to conform with state law.

Few Suburbanites Voted for Judges

The "care-not attitude" of suburban voters was costly to Joe Taxpayer in Monday's judicial election for two Cook county circuit court judgeships.

With traditional Republican suburban voters failing to appear at the polls, Democrats John Guteknecht, former state's attorney, and Alfred J. Cilella, Chicago alderman, were elected by a 2-1 majority over their Republican opponents, Daniel M. Schuyler and Roger L. Severns.

LACK OF interest was exemplified by Schaumburg township where 133 of 2,071 registered voters went to the polls.

Rough estimates are that in Schaumburg township, it cost more than $6 for each ballot cast. Throughout Cook county it cost about $1,000,000 to stage the election.

The Democratic-Republican coalition for the six Superior court judgeships was without contest as John F. Bolton, Daniel A. Covell, Matthew D. Hartigan, Roger J. Kiley, Donald S. McKinlay, and John A. Sbarbaro were returned to office.

IN THE CONTESTED Circuit court elections, the vote in Elk Grove township was Schuyler 459, Severens 450, Gutknecht 113, Cilella 102.

In Palatine township, the vote was Severns 442, Schuyler 423, Gutknecht 367, Cilella 363. In Schaumburg township, the vote was Severns 84, Schulyer 78, Gutknecht 57, Cilella 48.

In Wheeling township the election attracted fewer voters than even last year's lackluster June judicial election. There were 1,650 who voted in the township then, compared with 1,230 this year.

Last year, however, the Republicans carried the township by a 3-1 margin. This time they won by only 2-1, with an average of 23 Republicans and 11 Democrats voting in each of 37 precincts. In the two contested races, Democratic candidates Gutknecht, with 415 votes, and Cilella, with 391, lost out to Republicans Schuyler, 813, and Severns, 834. The turnout was way under 10 percent.

Down on the Farm

The 12th annual 4-H Fair will be held at the Arlington park jockey club September 12-14. It has been necessary to change the date to approximately one month later because of the longer racing season.

The board of directors and 4-H Leaders have given considerable thought and discussion to the change in date and have decided that it should not make any material difference in the planning and operation of the fair.

There will be a program each evening for the audience in front of the grandstand. The livestock and other 4-H projects will be on display during the entire fair. Judging of the livestock will be done on Saturday, so that those who work during the week will have a chance to come and see the livestock judged.

The annual horse show will be held as in the past, the exact time and date will be announced later. Yes, this promises to be one of the best 4-H Fairs ever to be held.

WEED CONTROL

The most important weed control measure in corn is cultivation, states W. O. Scott, agronomy extension specialist, University of Illinois. Judicious chemical weed control has a place in a corn production program but it should not replace cultivation. It should be used when cultivation does not give the desired results. To avoid injury to corn, early spraying is recommended.

PROTEIN IN ALFALFA

The dollars from milk are in the leaves of legume hay crops. If you leave half of the leaves in the field on an average acre of alfalfa, you must purchase at least 600 pounds of protein supplement to replace the lost protein. Leaves drop rapidly after alfalfa is past the one-tenth to one-half bloom stage.

GRADUATION DAY—one of the big occasions—call for pictures, both formal and informal, for remembering through the years.

Graduation—Truly a Picture Occasion

by FRED GAREISS

Graduation Day exercises are [illegible] Hundreds of thousands will be clutching the tightly-rolled diploma that closes one chapter and opens another in wonderful story of "growing up."

Whether the boy or girl graduate in your family is entering high school, heading off to college, or getting launched on a new career, this is a memorable time — a big-time occasion — in terms of family history. That's why we suggest you let your camera help you record it in the only fitting way—in permanent form on film.

In most schools and colleges today, Graduation Day is misnomer—it should really be called Graduation Week. For school's end is now marked by a score of special events — Proms, senior banquets, class plays, and all sorts of festivities before the "great day" itself.

If you're a wise parent — or grandparents — you'll salute the young graduate in two ways. First, you'll do a little planning-ahead and have your camera ready for a series of picture-taking sessions. No single yearbook picture can ever tell the story of the fun and excitement.

From the whole collection of snapshots you take, select the best ones and mount them in a special Graduation album. There, recorded on film for the future, will be everything worth remembering about this happy time. And you can be sure both the graduate and his family will have countless hours of pleasure reliving his school-day memories as the years go by.

The second of the ways to salute your young graduate is by means of a gift that he'd enjoy receiving. Here, may we suggest that you consider a camera? For what other gift item is more likely to please and more capable of providing so many hours of satisfaction? A simple flash camera is a fine choice for a young teenager, and an older graduate will appreciate a more elaborate camera or accessories for the one he already owns. You may also want to think about giving a miniature camera or one of the new low-priced movie cameras to the student who'll be off to college next fall.

THE CAMP will open June 16 and run to August 8. It is open to boys and girls from 6 to 12. Campers may sign up for from one to eight weeks.

Included in the program are nature study, trampoline, swimming and tumbling classes, games and handicrafts. Groups of campers will be kept to 10 children.

Camp directors are Don Von Ebers, a physical education and swimming instructor at Leyden high school, and Ken Zietlow, a former high school and college biology teacher who has been a forest preserve naturalist for the past three years. (B8

Sloppy Tax Collection, Mobility Are Blamed for Burden of Trailer Parks

(Second in a Series)

Americans are prone to pull up stakes and move to greener fields. And the people who are most prone to do this live in trailers — some 3.3 million of them, according to a late count of the Mobile Homes Manufacturers association.

A press agent for the MHMA glowingly sees "a growing trend on the part of the American public toward economical and comfortable mobile home living."

But if you talk with another group which deals daily with trailer owners and trailer interests, the picture is not so rosy. This group is the public officials who levy taxes for money to provide services for trailerites. The officials hasten to say they "have nothing against the people who live in trailers." But they complain that trailer residents on the whole don't pay their fair share of the cost of public services.

THE MOST COSTLY public service in suburban areas is education. Schools take a 70 per cent bite out of the tax bill. So it is the schools which suffer most if taxes aren't paid.

School boards quickly reaffirm the traditional American belief in the right of every child to a tuition-free education. The public must still pay the $300 cost of keeping each child in a classroom for a year, however, and in Illinois the major portion of the load falls upon local taxpayers.

School boards for years have known that both trailer camps and individual trailers contribute next to nothing to the public coffers. As the boom in trailer living continues, the worries of school officials increase.

An example of how little trailers are paying toward the staggering cost of education can be found in Elk Grove school district. It is the only district in northwest suburban Cook county with a critical trailer problem, although there are trailers by the thousands in south and southwest suburbs. Elk Grove's current 600 trailers are expected to increase to 1000 by the end of 1958.

ALSO TO BE SEEN in Elk Grove are the reasons why taxes aren't collected. These reasons are the lackadaisical assessment methods by which trailers are put on the tax rolls and the decrepit collection machinery which in effect allows probably 95 per cent of the trailers on the tax rolls to get by without paying their bills.

First let's look at the 1956 personal property tax rolls to see what trailers paid in the way of taxes. These would, of course, be personal property taxes, for in Illinois trailers cannot be taxed as real estate.

An examination of county records discloses there were 25 trailer owners of Elk Grove school district 59 listed on the 1956 personal property tax rolls. They should have paid bills averaging $70 each by June 1, 1957.

As of last week, only one person had paid his bill.

He was a resident of York trailer camp at York and Higgins rd., as were most of the others. He obviously had to scratch for the money, as he paid the $43.98 in two installments.

IT'S DOUBTFUL that the other 24 trailer families will ever have to pay because of creaky collection system. The county doesn't begin to try to collect delinquent taxes until 16 months after they are due, said Elk Grove township assessor John W. Pohlmann.

More months pass as justices of peace — assigned the task of collecting overdue taxes — haggle with or look for the shy delinquents. If the party has moved out of the county or state, only the State's Attorney could enforce payment through filing of a suit. The expense involved doesn't warrant chasing after $70 in back taxes.

Only weeks ago, Palatine township JP's began suits to collect 1955 personal property tax bills.

With mobile homes moved every 20 months on the average, by MHMA figures, there is little likelihood the slow-footed tax collectors will ever catch up with the trailerites.

To summarize, the century-old collection procedures are so painfully slow that unless payments are voluntary, few dollars for teachers' salaries will come out of trailer camps.

A LESSER REASON for poor personal property collections is the fumbling assessment and billing system used by the county. To worry about getting property placed on the tax rolls, when property already on the rolls doesn't pay, may seem like quibbling.

But there is always the chance that trailer owners would be more co-operative if all of them, not just some, were billed for taxes. It is clear that all aren't on the rolls. The 1957 bills were to be paid by Monday of this week. There are approximately 65 trailers on the rolls this year, compared with 25 last year.

These 65 trailers are supposed to represent every trailer in Elk Grove school district as of March 15, 1957. Actually, there were about twice this number of trailers on that date. Why the discrepancy? Assessor Pohlmann put the blame at the feet of the county. Pohlmann recalls he listed 91 trailers at one camp alone. He gets his lists of owners from the camp management.

Somewhere along the line in the complicated system, about half the names on the lists were apparently dropped. This happened, claims Pohlmann, after he forwarded names to the county and before the county sent out the tax bills this spring.

Whether or not camp owners list all their tenants is also open to question. Pohlmann obtained about 280 names from Willoway Terrace trailer this spring; the district school superintendent recently estimated the number of trailers there at 375.

IT SEEMS THAT Cook county is nowhere near as painstaking about running down should-be taxpayers as is Uncle Sam. We hear few complaints that the federal government slips up on collecting income taxes. The county system for collection of personal property taxes amounts to a joke, as far as trailers are concerned.

Where should improvements begin in the system of personal property taxation? At the assessment end, to make sure that every single trailer is placed on the tax rolls? Or at the collection end with strengthening the enforcement procedures?

Unless both basic faults in the system were improved, there will still be inequities. Fix one end of the system and you put everybody on the rolls and hardly anybody pays. Fix the other end and you collect from everyone on the rolls — but all don't get on the rolls.

Suburban legislators think that neither or both of these solutions will correct the situation sufficiently. The third article in the series will tell what changes have been suggested in state tax laws to eliminate property tax dodging. It will also discuss how other states cope with this problem created by "a growing trend" to live in homes on wheels. (B8

Fire Fighters In Carnival

For the second year, a round of water fights featuring local fire departments will highlight the annual Rolling Meadows fire carnival, June 12 through 15, at the city's shopping center on Kirchoff rd.

A trophy will be awarded to the winner of the contests. Winner of the trophy in 1957 was Barrington which will again participate in the event.

PURPOSE OF THE contests is to move a barrel across a marked area toward the goal line of the opposite team. The barrel is moved by water pumped through fire hoses and opposing teams usually are sprayed with as much water as the barrel.

Scheduled to participate in the fire hose contests are fire departments from Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Morton Grove, Prospect Heights, Park Ridge and Palatine, as well as Barrington and Rolling Meadows.

The annual fire carnival is held in Rolling Meadows to raise funds for fire equipment. Games, food, hot and cold drinks, displays and amusement rides are all featured.

Vote to Drop Zoning Appeals

County board has voted to drop appeals of three zoning lawsuits won by property owners.

The cases involve declaratory judgments entered against the county that allow construction of gas stations at the southwest corner of Kenilworth and Plum Grove rds., Palatine township, and at the southwest corner of Elmhurst and Hintz rds., Wheeling township, and also a shopping center at the southeast corner of the latter intersection.

Judge Thomas E. Kluczynski heard the cases involving the gas stations and Judge Harry M. Fisher, the shopping center, in Circuit court.

IN ALL THREE cases, the judges held that zoning the tracts for farming uses was behind the times.

The decision not to press an appeal in any of the cases was recommended by Harry Chaddick, county zoning consultant.

In a letter to the board, Chaddick said: "Inasmuch as our economic studies relating to the need and location of business zoning are not complete, it is entirely possible that the properties involved could be zoned for business in the proposed comprehensive amendments" to the county zoning ordinance his staff is working on.

POINTING OUT that the preliminary draft of the residential section for the new zoning code doesn't provide for a farming classification as such, Chaddick said it would be "difficult to argue" against the court orders in these three cases.

"The new district maps will, of course, be more realistic in their apportionment of land between the major categories of residential, business, and manufacturing," Chaddick said.

Dance instruction classes, conducted by Muriel Mills and Peter Lund, both members of the Chicago National Association of Dance Masters, will be included in the club's activities.

DATING IS NOT permitted at the instruction classes; however, dating and guests are permissable at the dances. Boys are required to wear a tie and coat at the dances. Other rules of the club are that no one is allowed to leave the premises during the classes or dances and every member must sign in at the instruction classes.

Tollway to Have Special Markings for Pavement

Pavement markings on Illinois' 187-mile tollway will include delineation of both outside pavement edges in white reflectorized striping in addition to conventional center-lane striping.

This was announced as the Illinois State Toll highway commission issued a call for bids for pavement marking for the tollway, now rapidly nearing completion.

Charles L. Dearing, executive director, said that the outside marking was an added safety feature designed to make pavement edges highly visible under night driving conditions.

"THE OUTSIDE stripe will clearly mark the edge of concrete pavement," he said. "It will supplement the safety provided by an 11-foot outside shoulder of paved asphalt on the right and a similar 5-foot inside shoulder on the left of each roadway."

George L. Jackson, chief engineer of the commission, said that the pavement marking would require more than 26,000 gallons of white paint and that more than 52,000 pounds of "glass spheres," which provide reflective qualities, would be added to the paint.

Bids on the pavement marking contract will be opened by the commission on June 19. The marking of the Northwest Tollway and the Lake county portion of the Tri-State Tollway will be completed in time for the opening of those routes to traffic in August. (B8

KICKIN' IT AROUND

by BOB PADDOCK

BOB DOTTS, '54 Arlington grad, has been named on the Skyline conference eastern division all-star baseball squad. Dotts played for Colorado State university, was a top-notcher with the bat and with the glove. He led his team in hitting in conference games with 11 singles in 31 times at bat for a .355 mark, eighth best in the division. Defensively, Bob showed an especially strong and accurate throwing arm, a sure receiver.

Colorado State finished second to New Mexico in the division race, with Dotts one of three unanimous choices on the all-star aggregation.

Our spies at Illinois tell us Dan Vittum received frosh baseball numerals. He was listed as one of the "five top plebe ball players." John Wingert of York also received numerals in baseball. Don Drever of Maine garnered one in swimming with Rock Sharer of Roselle receiving the same. Bob Klaus of Grant was granted a varsity baseball letter. Ted Caiazza of LaGrange grabbed off a varsity letter in track. John Voyda of R-B was granted a varsity letter in golf.

STAN NORMAN of Arlington, spectacular swimmer and high jumper, has been named winner of the first annual Duke award for the freshman athlete of the year at Grinnell college. Stan erased all pool and college records in sprint swimming, traveling the 60-yard event in :29 and the 100 in :53.

In track Norman had a top leap of six feet in the high jump. His performances topped Midwest conference competition in both sports.

Arlington's Mike Spinello has been averaging 74.5 for Northern at DeKalb in golf, with Card grad Wayne Rolfs averaging 80.1. They've been Nos. 1 and 7 men on the team, respectively. Top tennis singles man at Northern this year has been Dick Buchanan of Maine, winner of 9 of 11 matches.

CHARLES TURNER of Roselle has been awarded a track letter at Grinnell, with Mike Cromie of Grayslake taking the same in golf . . . In baseball it was Larry Dukes of R-B and Lee Moses of Maine . . . Bruce Burgess of Arlington Heights has been awarded a tennis letter at Wentworth military academy . . . Bob Coates of Palatine is a member of the Jonathan Edwards college baseball team, representing one of the ten residential colleges at Yale.

Purdue has picked off the Ohio prep track star, Dave Mills, who ran the 440 in :46.6, the 100 in :09.7 and the 220 in :21.2.

Vic Pagel of Maine, all-round star, has signed a tender for Iowa . . . All-state fullback Pete Roller of Wheaton is going to Baylor . . . Mike McCoy of Fort Wayne, Indiana, who stands 7' 1", is favoring Northwestern . . . Jim Counts, New Rochelle, N. Y. track star, :09.6 in the 100 and one of that state's leading gridders, has indicated he favors Illinois . . . Two steel center area boys favoring Illinois are Jim Hicks and John Connolly, both of whom made headlines in several sports.

ATHLETIC TEAMS representing University of Illinois won four Western Conference championships and two N. C. A. A. titles during the 1957-58 school year, top record in the conference and best for Illinois since 1951-52. Other eight Big Ten team championships were divided among seven schools, with only Iowa winning more than one.

Illini won both indoor and outdoor track championships, as well as fencing and gymnastics. Fencers took the N. C. A. A. title, and gymnasts tied with Michigan State for the national championship.

Illinois produced five national individual champions: Bob Norman, heavyweight wrestling; Abe Grossfeld, free exercise, horizontal bar, and all-around in gymnastics; Frank Hailand, tumbling; Art Schankin, sabre fencing; and Joe Hunsaker, swimming 200-yard individual medley.

TWO NEW SPORTS to be added to the agenda at Glenbard next year are wrestling and gymnastics . . . Wrestling was a conference-recognized sport for the first time this year, though it did not count towards the president's cup . . . Next winter it will, because all eight schools are expected to compete in grappling . . . Jon Spelman has been given top athletic award at York high school where he won six letters and four numerals in football, basketball and tennis, was named to the national athletic scholarship society, received the Clarence East trophy for track letterman with the highest scholastic average.

Jon received all-league mention in both football and basketball, co-captain and most valuable in football, was a district doubles champ in tennis.

Ed Meyer was selected outstanding all-round athlete at LaGrange . . . One reason Bloom is a perennial power in track is the annual Chicago Heights playground track meet for boys 7 through 12 scheduled this year for June 28 with Jesse Owens honorary judge . . . National golf day is slated for June 7 when golfers can pit their play, with handicaps, against 1957 national open champ Dick Mayer and 1957 PGA champ Lionel Herbert . . . Michigan State just opened sale of grid tickets, but the game with Michigan is already a sellout except for season ducat purchasers . . . Big Ten batting champ this year was Indiana's Bob Lawrence with a .472 mark . . . Coaching school at Indiana Aug. 4-7 will include North Carolina grid mentor Earle Edwards and cage mentor Fred Schaus of West Virginia . . . Joliet may have won the Big 8 tennis championship, but the Fox river boys fell to Arlington, 11-1, just the same . . . Up-to-the-minute fishing reports can once again be gained by calling CEntral 6-6441 starting June 6 . . . This publicity stunt brought in 50,000 calls for the authentic information last summer.

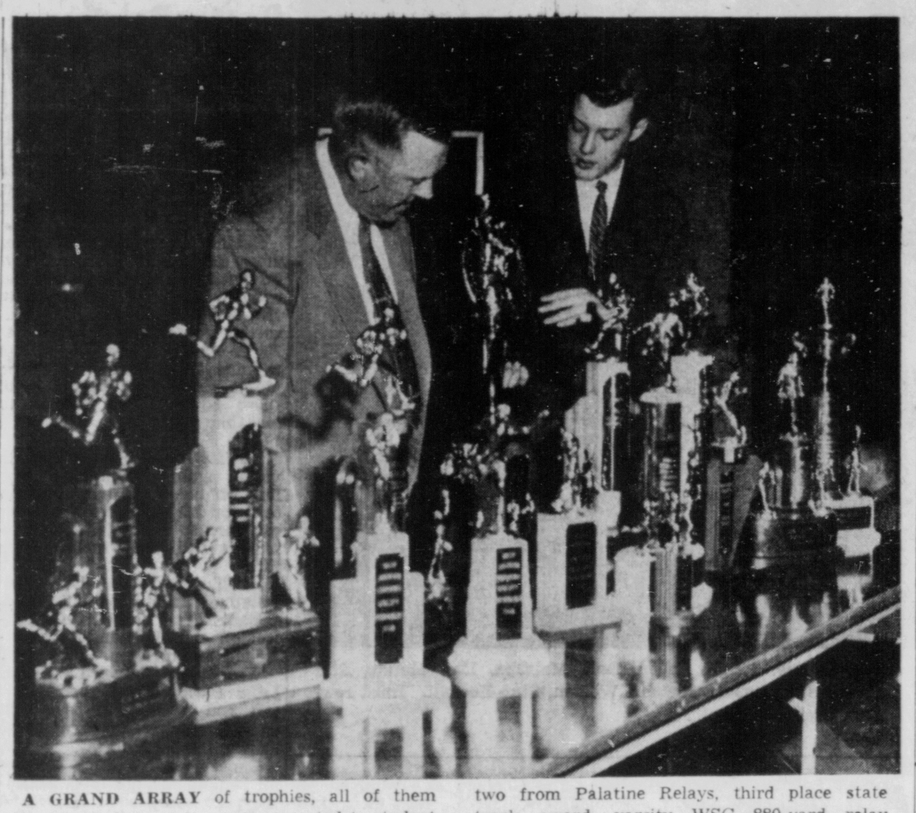
Big Ten Champ

Indiana's Bob Lawrence, the 1958 Big Ten batting champion, is the third Hoosier to win that distinction in the last ten years and third developed by Coach Ernie Andres. Don Ritter won it in 1949 with a .439 average and Bobby Robertson in 1954 with .438, both being surpassed by Lawrence's .472 average this season. (Sp



A GRAND ARRAY of trophies, all of them won in spring sports, were presented to student body at Arlington high school last week. Athletic director Wally Grace and student council president Jim Sherman look over the loot. Trophies included nine from Hinsdale Relays, two from Palatine Relays, third place state track award, varsity WSC 880-yard relay trophy, varsity championship in Lake Shore meet, district golf championship, and two conference golf championship awards.

Wet Grounds Postponed Many Games; Full Slate on Docket

Play in Arlington Heights' Babe Ruth league began this week, bringing the total of Little Leagues now in action to 7. The weatherman was not so kind to Pony Leaguers, washing out all opening day activities.

There was still plenty of baseball around the town as some 38 games were run off on schedule. Action next week will reach an all-time high, with 52 teams completing in 47 contests.

Action in the individual leagues went as follows:

Babe Ruth League

Brodnan's near-perfect game started things off in the Babe Ruth League. The Redlegs' hurler fanned 14 of a possible 18 in 6 innings and hurled hitless ball, earning a 3-0 victory over the Lions. Lips was the losing pitcher, although he allowed only 4 hits.

Also posting opening victories were the Indians and the Bears. A 10 hit attack carried the Indians over the Hawks, 10-2, and the Browns were the Bear victims by a 5-3 count.

Greg Beckway struck out 16 in a losing cause for the Browns. His mound opponent, Francis O'Connell had 10 K.O.'s to his credit. Thomas, Sass, and O'Connell led the winners' attack with 2 hits apiece.

National League

Wet grounds forced the cancellation of Saturday's games, but the National Leaguers still managed to get in 3 contests. The Dodgers continued to set the loop-leading pace by whipping the Braves 8-5. It was the fourth straight win for the Dodgers.

The Cubs eked out a 3-2 victory over the Giants to take sole possession of second place. Heitz pitched 3 hit ball for the winners and Martin lost out despite a 4 hit performance. A run in the bottom of the sixth was the deciding factor.

The Pirates dropped the Cardinals into the cellar with an 11-8 decision. Tom Ashley was the winning pitcher; Guilfoil was the loser.

American League

A battle for first place between the Red Sox and the White Sox featured a 6 game program in the American League this week. The 2 teams battled to an 8 inning, 2-2 deadlock which left the Red Sox in first with the White Sox just a game behind. Vaughn allowed only 2 hits for the White Sox; Brodnan was touched for 6 as the Red Sox hurler.

In other games the White Sox blasted the Senators 16-5 and the Red Sox squeezed by the Yankees 3-1, despite Tindall's 2-hitter. Tully connected for the game's only extra base hit, a home run.

The Yanks bounced back in the win column with an 11-1 victory over the Tigers, who have yet to win a game. Henken fanned 11 for the winners. The Tigers were also the victims of the Athletics, 7-2. The Senators, however, tamed the Athletics, 7-6.

Arlington High School Varsity Tennis team met Joliet High School in its final tennis meet of the season May 31. As this was a non-league match for both schools, the coaches agreed on playing eight singles and teaming the eight players for four doubles matches.

Of the twelve matches played, the local team won eleven. The entire team played some of its best tennis of the year in decisively beating Joliet, a team that won the Big Eight tennis title this year.

CLIMAXING the Spring tennis season, the Arlington Heights J. C.'s are again sponsoring its local tennis tournament this week. Competition began Monday with twelve players in the boys' division (under age 15) and twenty-five in the junior division (ages 15-18).

As of Wednesday the field had been cut down to four semi-finalists in each division.

IN THE JUNIOR division Thurston Brown faced Warren Myers in one semi-final match, and Keith Butterfield played Jim Erickson in the other.

For the winners in each division the local J. C.'s will defray entry fees and expenses for the State J. C. tournament held in Charleston, Illinois this year June 27, 28 and 29.

Local Athletes Given ND Awards

by LARRY PAKYZ

Baseball activities for the school year of 1958 came to a successful conclusion with all teams participating victoriously in their games this past week at Notre Dame. The varsity defeated North Chicago 7 to 3 and repeated this score of 7 to 3 against Immaculate Conception. These two victories gave the varsity a season record of 13 wins, 8 losses and 1 tie.

A note of interest to all ND followers was the fact that all losses suffered were by a one-run margin, with the exception of the loss to Niles in the District playoffs. Another cheerful note is that every member of the varsity is returning next year along with some promising sophomores which should make it one of the top teams of this area.

DESPITE THE FACT that five of the sophomores' outstanding ball players were brought up to the varsity in mid-season, the sophs closed their schedule with a 9 won, 9 loss record defeating North Chicago 5 to 4 in their finale. This win enabled the teams to keep up their traditional record of never having played under .500 ball for the season.

In keeping with this record of never playing under .500 ball, the freshmen also had to win their two remaining games last week which they accomplished by snapping North Chicago's frosh ten-game winning streak 8 to 2 and with typical ND spirit, coming from behind in the last inning with a homer by John Schramm to beat Leyden 2 to 1. This gave the ND Frosh a 7 win, 6 loss and 1 tie record for the year.

Notre Dame's golf team closed its season with 5 wins and 4 losses, one game having been lost by a half point and another by 1 point.

Des Pl. Merchants Lose to Sylvano's

Des Plaines Merchants baseball team took its first defeat Memorial day against a power house Sylvano's Red Wings, 21-5.

Harold Fendius started the game but Bob Hamilton of Palatine had to relieve him during the third inning due to a rash of base hits. Hamilton turned out to be less effective than Fendius and between the two gave up 21 runs on 24 hits, while walking seven and striking out only three Sylvano's.

MANAGER KENTZEL of Elk Grove said that despite the large margin in the score, The Des Plaines team played good ball. "We still kept our batting going by collecting 12 hits off better pitching than we have seen this season, but there is no doubt we must strengthen our own pitching staff in order to secure a first position in the league.

"We are negotiating the signing of an ex-White Sox pitcher, but until we are sure of his services we will withhold his name until a later date, probably next week."

CHICAGO Tigers will come to Des Plaines this Sunday, June 8, boasting a 3-1 record to date, the same as the Merchants. The Tigers are members of the Greater Midwest league. Game will start at 2:30 at West Park field, Wolf rd., Des Plaines.

Behrens, Ryden Sparkle As Boosters Win, 8-5

First baseman Leo Behrens and third baseman Dave Ryden, performing in their first game of the year, turned in sparkling defensive efforts and paced a 12 hit attack to lead Black's Boosters to an 8-5 triumph over the Aurora Tigers last Saturday.

The new combo, batting seventh and eighth respectively, collected one-fourth of the total Booster hits, scored twice and batted in four runs to help snap the club's 3 game losing streak.

Behrens, who appeared in five 1957 games batting .333 with 1 double and 3 RBI's, will get a chance to help extend the win streak to two, when the club clashes with Western Printing of Racine tonight at Horlick Field, 8:00. Ryden, however, will miss the tilt in favor of attending his graduation ceremonies at Colorado A & M.

SATURDAY and Sunday Black's play at Recreation Park. They entertain the newly formed Des Plaines Merchants Saturday at 3:00 and then go after win number 2 against Kolski Boosters Sunday in another Greater Chicago Semi-Pro League game at 2:30. Next Wednesday night they test the Burlington, Wisconsin White Fox club at 8:00 in Burlington.

The Aurora contest turned out to be the only one of three scheduled over the weekend the Boosters were able to play.

Memorial day's game with the Chicago Yankees wasn't played because the Yankees were voted from the League earlier that week for not competing in their initial three games. Sunday's match with the Chicago Vets was postponed because of rain and will be made up as part of a July sixth double-header at Arlington.

GETTING BACK to Saturday's refreshing win, the Black's Memorial Home team had to tear a page from the Wrigley Field book of heroics to provide the victory and make Bob Miller's first win a reality.

Miller was behind 3-0 in the very first inning before he fanned the sixth man he faced for the first out.

Frank Hettinger, a thorn in Miller's side all afternoon, led off with a slash to center. The little 5' 9" lefty walked the next two men loading the bases, and then gave up run producing singles to shortstop, Ray Youngdall and third baseman, Dick Hibbard. At this point it looked as though another dreary day was in the making, but Miller bore down to whiff the eighth and ninth man after issuing a 1-out pass to leftfielder Denny Stevens loading the bags for the second time.

MILLER WAS stingy the rest of the way scattering seven hits. Aurora didn't touch him until the eighth when the Tigers scored twice, both runs were unearned, resulting from his own wild heave to Behrens on what should have been the second out. He fanned the next man, but then the Tiger's second hurler, Steve Emery, whacked a single to left scoring one run. The pesty Hettinger then poled his third hit, a triple to right-center for their fifth and final run. Chuck Teuscher, MSU football end, popped up to end the threat.

In the middle innings, Miller was supported with two double plays, Arlington's first of the year, and the outstanding plays of Ryden and Behrens.

THE BOOSTERS scored 1 run in the second without a hit. Two walks and a throwing error were responsible.

They grabbed a 4-3 lead they never relinquished in the third inning with the bases loaded and two out, clutch hits by Randy Thomas and Behrens' two-out, 2 RBI single scored Joe Jankers and Ron Ashley. Ed Meinken kindled the blaze with his second straight hit, which ignited after two outs.

Two more checked in in the sixth on Behrens' second consecutive hit, a sacrifice by Ryden, and Miller's hit, a two-base throwing error and a wild pitch by starter and loser Clyde Davidson.

Ryden blasted a 370 foot double off the base of the fence in the ninth inning to ice the Black's second win of the year. This was preceded by shortstop Jankers single and that man of the afternoon's third hit. This capped a perfect day for Behrens who wound up with 3 for 3, a walk, and was hit once. (Sp

A battle for first place between 2 unbeaten teams ended in a 6-6 deadlock this week. The Ravens and Stars, victorious in other contests this week, fought to a 6 inning tie and shared the league lead this week.

Reising fanned 15 in the decisionless contest. Kim of the Ravens and Gross of the Stars hit home runs.

The Dons moved into third place, a half game out of first, with a 6-3 win over the Seals and a 15-10 decision over the Solons. Knorr and Curtain had home runs for the Seals to provide that team's only scoring. Larry Wagner homered for the winners twice. Winning pitcher Meyn also contributed a four-bagger to the cause.

Grand slam homers by Busch and Larsen gave the Dons their victory over the Solons, who were led by McInness' 2 doubles and 3 R.B.I.

In other action the Seals dropped the Huskies, who have yet to win a game, 17-4. The Stars racked up a 22-9 victory over the Solons, and the Rangers turned down the Huskies' bid for a victory, 13-12.

The Gophers were resting in first place at the end of last week's action as a result of some fine pitching. Martin struck out 18, the maximum in the 6 inning contest. He lost his bid for a no hitter, giving up a single safetie and settling for a 5-2 victory over the Owls. It was the first loss for the Owls.

The Gophers also whipped the Millers, 12-6, for their fifth straight win. The Badgers protected their unbeaten record with a 13-1 victory over the Robins.

The Owls snapped back from their first loss to down the Sox 9-5 behind McKay. He and the Sox' Stoehr each fanned a dozen in the contest.

The Sox had taken their first win of the season earlier in the week, an 8-7 edging of the Bisons, who have yet to win. Dan Collins threw a one-hitter and struck out the side in each inning, 15 in the 5 inning contest.

In other game Hecht shut out the Gulls, 8-0, for the Blues. Jerry Donahue came to relieve a teammate on the mound in the first inning and stuck around to finish the game by holding the Millers hitless as the Robins collected a 13-6 victory. The Millers suffered their third setback of the week, an 18-4 pasting at the hands of the Blues.

The Spartans may be untouchable in the South Side Junior loop. In racking up 5 straight wins, the league leaders have tallied 71 runs. This week they jumped on the second place Angels, 11-4, thumped the Wrens, 19-7, and clobbered the Buckeyes 16-1.

Closest competitors to the Spartans are the Angels, who overcame the Podres, 12-3, thanks to Schauman's 12 strike outs and an epidemic of measles, which kept 7 Podres out of the lineup.

In other contests the Beavers blasted the Buckeyes 17-5 for their first victory of the young season. John Keys pitched the victory, fanning 10. The Oaks and Wrens played to a 9-9 standstill, and the Podres bounced back to take the Beavers 7-2.

MAC SAYS

by G. A. McELROY

NORTH CHICAGO lost just one basketball game and one baseball game to Tri-County conference opponents in 4 major sports as they made a clean sweep of football, basketball, baseball, and track championships in the new league in its first year of operation. Coach Tom Parker piloted the varsity football team to an undefeated season. Ed White directed the basketball team which lost only to Fenton and had a 9-1 record. Guy Curtright's baseball team also lost only to Fenton while compiling a 9-1 mark.

Bob Braden's track squad won the league meet by a 20 point margin. Palatine managed to win two minor sports, cross country and golf, and Glenbrook took the wrestling.

Guy Curtright, coach of the North Chicago baseball team, is one of the most successful baseball coaches in the suburbs. At Woodstock he copped a number of championships both in spring and summer league ball. The first year North Chicago was organized as a school Curtright coached the Warhawks to a second place in the state. This year, with only 2 returning regulars, Curtright directed a Tri-County champ and was within one putout of getting his team into the state tourney.

Leading Maine Twp. 3-2 in the last of the 7th, North Chicago lost 4-3 in the sectional finals. Curtright came to this area from Missouri as an outfielder with the Chicago White Sox. After 2 successful seasons playing left field for the Comiskeys, Curtright suffered a broken leg and shifted to high school coaching. He is at present athletic director at the North Chicago school.

WHEN PALATINE took 4 of the top 5 places in capturing the conference golf title it was not the first time this has been done. Palatine did it once before and Glenbrook and the Northbrook school from which it was formed each took 4 out of 5 on one occasion.

John Campbell who was medalist with a 75 had an eagle 2 on the 430 yard third hole at Itasca which the pro at the club stated was the first made on that hole.

Campbell competed most of the season as third man on the team but really came through in the pinch. None of the 4 boys who took medals in the conference meet are seniors but Pete John, who is also the only underclass letterman on the varsity basketball team, will be lost for next year by transfer to Washington, D. C.

MOST BOYS do not have the problem which faced Dick Wisner of Palatine recently. Dick who ranks second in the senior class in scholarship, was offered a $600 rector scholarship at DePauw university, plus a board job and also a $750 a year scholarship at Yale university with a loan and $400 work assignment. Dick finally accepted the Yale scholarship and we feel he will be heard from on both the gridiron and baseball diamond at Yale in the next 4 years. Wisner certainly rates such consideration.

On top of being one of Palatine high's best students he is also one of the best all round athletes ever to compete for the Pirates.

Norman Stenzel, who will return to his Palatine high alma mater as a teacher and coach next year, was recipient of an unusual award at awards convocation at Dubuque university last week. Stenzel was presented with a trophy as the first winner of the Sol Butler award as outstanding athlete at the college from the Chicago area. Sol Butler, a Chicago colored athlete, was the greatest ever to compete at Dubuque. He was winner of the 100 yard dash in the Olympic games of 1922 and scored 27 points to win the conference track title for Dubuque U. In one football game he scored every time he carried the ball and was considered one of the best halfbacks in the nation. Stenzel was a four year man in both football and track at Dubuque.

AMONG 8 LETTERMEN honored in wrestling at Dubuque university this year was Karl Schwenk, freshman from Palatine. Bob Nordin, captain of this year's winning grappling team at Palatine and all-conference halfback, has enrolled at Dubuque for next fall.

The statewide bonus for games played in the state basketball series of tournaments set a new record of $80 to each team for each tournament game played.

In addition regional and sectional bonuses were distributed. A total of 82.2% of all tournament receipts was divided among the participating schools. Biggest bonus total paid to any school was West Aurora with $1,381.95. Rock Falls, state runnerup gets $1,185.79, and Elgin, who did not get to the final games at Champaign got a bonus of $1,129.68. Ten years ago the state bonus was $35 a game as compared with this year's $80.

JUST DOGS

by DAVE TERRILL

Fish Diet

Now that your editor has returned from his annual spring fishing jaunt to Canada and is back pounding ou the bi-weekly dog column it is sort of interesting to reflect on some of the things he has seen or heard about dogs during his travels.

One thing of particular interest, which every year seems to never vary, is the diet which Indians use in feeding their dogs. The woods Indian of Canada considers fish as perhaps the most staple diet for his dogs and when he returns to camp each night there is usually one fish caught for each of the Indian's dogs. Although most dogs around the average Indians' summer camp are sort of a "mixed-up" breed, they all eat fish with equal gusto.

One of our regular Indian guides has six children with a dog for each youngster plus one or two for good measure. In addition to seeing that he has some fish to take back to his own family the dogs must also be considered and it can take on the appearance of a commercial fishing operation when he leaves for home each evening.

During the white man's hunting season the diet will, of course, be augmented by extra scraps of bear, moose or deer and the like,however, fish and whatever else the dogs may catch or the Indians give them seems to be the main course. The dogs for the most part are in good health and seem to thrive on such meals, although perhaps in the long run they miss some items of a well balanced meal.

Equipment

Your editor is often amused when he watches people buy a new leash or collar for their family dog. Many folks will buy the least expensive item they can get their hands on, never considering the fact that the age old saying of "you get what you pay for" applies to dog equipment just as well as it does to a new saw, a set of dishes or a new suit or dress.

One thing should be considered above all and that is just what sort of leash or collar is needed for the particular breed of dog involved. Dogs with a long coat should not have a flat broad collar which will tend to mat down the hair, but rather a good rolled collar which will slip down under the hair. A flat collar for short haired dogs will work out fine, and indeed many of your short coated gun dogs are trained with good heavy wide, flat collars.

When it comes to leashes, this is where many folks find themselves at a complete loss. Here it is a matter of preference as to whether a good pliable flat or rolled leather leash is best. Above all, keep in mind that a chain leash snarls easily, is awkward to handle, can be rough on your hands when trying to correct the dog and also does not transmit any corrective messages as well to the dog.

When you do go out and buy a good leash, your dog should not be permitted to use it as a toy or chew on it. Neither should you use it to slap or correct your dog as he would soon become leary of it and would perhaps shy away when you bring it out to use for walking him.

Barks & Bays

This writing about Indians brings to mind a few facts in history about their dogs. When Columbus discovered the new world, the only domestic animals in North America were turkeys and dogs. Also, the plains Indians used large dogs as pack animals before the Spaniards brought the horse to the west in 1540.

Three Teams Move in Front Wayside Golf League Play

Our Lady of the Wayside golf league went into it's third week of play Wednesday, May 28 and three teams opened up daylight between themselves and the rest of the league.

Garden Liquor Mart, captained by Jack Boland, smothered Arlington Milk 6 to 0. Two of Jack's teammates, Jim Howard and Tom Barrett came in with net 34's to nail down the victory. Chet Mrozek birdied No. 6 in the process of defeating Mert Taylor of the dairymen.

Chuck Cronin's No. 4 team stayed on Garden Liquors heels by taking 5½ points in their match with John Pepio's No. 8 team. Cronin, Frank Plennert and Bob Ulbrich, Sr. won their matches while Capt. Pepio's tie with Oscar Dalleslarger kept it from being a whitewash.

HOWIE JOHNSON'S No. 3 team with victorys by Johnson, Bernie Kelly, and Bob Wirth gained a 5 to 1 victory over Tom Strass' No. 2 team. Tom gained the single point for his outfit while Howie Johnson gained low net for the victors.

Altho Pat Gilmore's No. 5 team lost 4½ to 1½ to Don Engstrom's No. 7 team, they managed to hold a slim lead in the "second division." Dave Marini and Bob Pagliai were hot for the Engstroms as they both came in with 34 nets. The two captains tied their match.

Pickett Paint Monday Leader At Mt. Prospect

The only team that has not changed position each week in the Monday nite division of the Mt. Prospect twilight golf league is Mt. Prospect State bank. They have taken a firm grip on last place and through the weeks seem reluctant to give up this spot.

This certainly isn't in keeping with the other teams, who seem to change position every week.

PICKETT PAINT took over first with a ½ point advantage over Mt. Prospect Savings and Loan who moved up from fifth to take over second. Mel and Paul's Drive-In moved up from fourth to take third.

The fourth place spot is shared by Annen & Busse dropping from first and Illinois Range who came up from ninth place by scoring 8½ points.

BIRDIES were again plentiful: Len Johnson 11, 16, Tom Cox 11, 13, Jack Moran 10, Bob Louthain 1, Mike Weber 1, 4, Frank McCabe 18 and Phil Jeuck 9.

This is a record so far in Northwest Suburban YMCA golf.

P-O-N-Y Grads Offers More Baseball for Older Boys

by MORT LEVE

P-O-N-Y League Baseball will have a new look in 1958.

The league for 13-14 year old boys, which has grown to international proportions in its seven years of operation, will offer a Graduate Division program for 15-16 year old boys this summer.

P-O-N-Y League Baseball, Inc., is headquartered in Washington, Pa., where the best of the league's more than 55,000 participants gather each August for their World Series. Lew Hays, onetime sportswriter who was among a small troup of men who founded the league in 1951, heads the administrative staff. World famed comedian and actor Joe E. Brown is the international president. Well versed in P-O-N-Y League affairs, Brown heads a 24-man board of directors which supervises operation of the league. Hays and his office staff are the only paid members of the organization, all others serving on a volunteer basis.

AS P-O-N-Y LEAGUE was founded to provide a follow-up program for Little League graduates, the new Graduate Division is being organized to provide an outlet for 15 and 16 year old boys who have outgrown Little and P-O-N-Y League play but are not quite ready to move into competition with older players.

The P-O-N-Y Grads league, as it is becoming popularly known, moves the boy onto the regulation sized diamond from the cut down versions of Little and P-O-N-Y league. This will be baseball in the major league sense, with suitable limitations on pitching, length of games, and adult coaching.

THE STILL developing pitchers will not be permitted to pitch in more than 14 innings in any calendar week, and must have at least 40 hours of rest after pitching in four or more innings. Any member of the team may be used as a pitcher.

Regulation games in the graduate division will be seven innings, and only one adult coach will be permitted on the baselines.

Basic aim of the graduate division is to continue the development of the boy through baseball. Though the 15-year-old has reached a point of physical maturity wherein he is capable of playing regulation baseball, the P-O-N-Y Grads league provides two years during which he may develop his talents among boys of comparatively equal size and maturity before entering into open competition with older boys and men.

FOR MOST BOYS this means a chance to continue playing the game regularly rather than sitting on a bench during their apprentice years in regulation baseball.

Bensenville — Funeral services of John Landwehr were held Sunday at St. Johannes church. He had been afflicted with inflamatory rheumatism which finally turned to heart trouble.

Old Cupid is hitting several of our young men this year. Robert Fluegge is the latest victim; he married Miss Libby Whiteman May 29. We hate to see the young people leave our town, but without the necessary train accommodation it bars this young couple from starting life here as well as many others.

Wheeling — Joe Behm and bride who gave their cousin Tony, a brief visit while on their wedding trip, returned to Milwaukee May 20.

Buffalo Grove — Long Grove made their first appearance on our ball grounds Sunday and were severely pummeled for their dareness. It was a somewhat one-sided contest but still the crowd present went home satisfied, as the games between these teams are always of a jolly good natured character full of Fun and Ginger. Attendance 210; score 20 to 4.

North Northfield — Miss Emma Sanders and Mr. Will Meier were married May 21 at at the West Northfield Lutheran church.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cruickshank renewed their wedding vows June 2, the 25th anniversary of their marriage.

The twenty-two star service flag of the St. Peter's Ev. Luth. church at Arlington Heights was dedicated Saturday afternoon amid impressive ceremonies. The program, combining the unfurling of the service flag and the celebration of the Centennial Statehood of Illinois, was very appropriate and duly appreciated by the large number present.

Monday, June 17, the citizens of Arlington Heights will have mail brot to their doors, that is if they have cement sidewalks, street signs and house numbers.

THE SIXTH Annual School Festival will be held at Deer Grove Forest Preserve June 14. Great speakers, great subjects, and a great day for every school child and school patron in western Cook County. Bring your picnic baskets. See the Forest Preserve, lake, the 500 sheep and the deer. There will be the usual athletic events in which nearly every school in the division will have entries.

Many Arlington Heights young people graduate this spring from educational institutions in various parts of the country, among them being Ruth Beardsley, Earl Allison, Harold Peter, Margaret Krause, Edwin Klehm from Arlington Heights high school; Margaret Bray from high school at Cedar Rapids, John Bray, Pillsbury academy; Helen Kates, Vassar college, Rose and Margaret Zoll, Cook County Normal; Marjory Berbecker, Wells College and Lilian Stangor, Northwestern University.

A news item from the Elgin Daily News shows that the Oltendorf Construction Co. of Palatine is making good on the construction of tne large bridge they are building across the Fox river at Dundee.

Mors Bakery will continue to do business although Ed Mors has answered his country's call for men. One of the best home bakeries in Chicago will furnish Mrs. Mors with the best bread that can be made.

The members of the L. B. A. club believe in universal service for the faminine sex as well as for the men and have instituted "hikes" as "first training" which proved a delightful diversion from the usual program. Tuesday evening when they met with Misses Laura and Marie Meyer.

CHARLES H. SIGWALT was born at Arlington Heights, 1860. He was confirmed in the Wheeling Presbyterian church in 1885 and joined in holy wedlock in the same church with Miss Dorothy Imhoff. This union was blessed with four children, one of whom was waiting to welcome his father on the other side. He passed away May 29.

Wheeling — The Red Cross drive has been put over the top at Wheeling. A number of the school children did good work in securing pledges — Eleanor Bellmore, Elsie Pieper, Dorothy Forke, Helen Ratke, Jean Rhys, Freddy Winters, Agnes Krueger, Mae Ehlers, and Edward Wahl.

Roselle — Grandma Thieman died in her 89th year at Rodenburg May 26.

Schaumburg — A certain young man from a neighboring town driving a Ford, smashed into Herman Lichthardt's buggy Decoration Day, demolished the rig, spilled Mr. Lichthardt on the pavement. The horse is in bad condition. Our pavement is amply wide for our local people to meet upon, but as this party was off from the road several times that day we may assume that the Ford was run by something stronger than gasoline.

Suburbs Oppose Edison Rate Hike

Final arguments to decide whether there should be an increase in electric bills of almost two million Commonwealth Edison customers in Chicago and also 320 other northern Illinois communities were presented Tuesday and Wednesday before the Illinois commerce commission.

Edison is seeking rate hikes averaging 7.5 per cent. The utility was granted a 6.5 per cent rate hike in January, 1954, its first general rate boost in 66 years.

SHARLES A. BANE, Edison's attorney, told the state commission in Chicago that arguments opposing the increase — that the rate hike is untimely because of change in economic conditions since the case was filed last July — are irrelevant.

Villages opposing the increase include: Berwyn, Streamwood, Lincolnwood, Maywood, Lombard, Cicero, Melrose Park, Northlake, Forest Park, Skokie, Northfield, and Summit.

Others are Mount Prospect, Homewood, Lansing, Elmhurst, Calumet City, Joliet, Batavia, Naperville, Geneva, Rock Falls, and St. Charles. Joseph F. Grossman is special counsel representing Chicago.

BANE TOLD THE commission that Edison will need $800 million to complete its 1957-61 program and $360 million of this must be raised in the open money markets.

"To compete with other utilities and industry in getting money from investors, Edison must improve its earnings to make its securities attractive," Bane said.

The increase, if granted, would add about 50 cents a month to the bill of the average residential user of electricity. It would give Edison an additional $26.4 million in gross revenue annually, or $11.9 million net after taxes.

The last increase granted Edison was patterned to produce 5.8 per cent earnings on invested capital, Bane said. As costs increased, earnings dropped to 4.25 per cent, he added.

LAST MINUTE opposition came Wednesday by five municipalities that buy electricity wholesale and resell at retail. They are Batavia, Rock Falls, Naperville, Geneva and St. Charles.

They charged the 9.8 per cent proposed increase in rates to the towns discriminatory because it is higher than proposed for other types of service.

Bane said previously the towns make from 20 to 66 per cent profit from resale of the electricity.

Republic Steel corporation, Reynolds Metals company, Northwestern Steel and Wire company, Service Pipe Line company, and Swift and company also made last minute objections before the state commission.

EDISON'S REQUEST for a hike is not supported by evidence and should thus be refused, the city of Chicago contended. Attorneys representing the city said Edison has ample funds available for working cash and does not need more.

The state commission has until June 21 to rule on Edison's request. If no ruling is handed down by then, Edison's new rates automatically become effective.

Suspend Drivers' Licenses

One northwest suburban motorist had his driver's license revoked and four others had them suspended, Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier announced last week.

They were among 282 drivers throughout the state who had their licenses revoked and 87 who had them suspended.

The lone revocation was that of Billy F. Jones, 249 W. Chicago ave., Palatine, for being convicted of driving while intoxicated.

THE FOUR WHO had their licenses suspended were charged with causing or contributing to an accident resulting in death or injury.

They were Otho M. Birdwell, Route 1, River rd., Mt. Prospect; Everett W. McManaway, 3002 Lee st., Arlington Heights; William A. Sprengell, 113 S. Walnut st., Palatine; and John C. Studinski, 1208 N. Stratford, Arlington Heights. (B8

That's what Daddy says. You can't see him ... he's outa the picture ... but that's me, right there. Daddy says he'd hate to throw me a curve. Meaning, not enough money saved up for my education and clothes and stuff. Says I need protection. I told him ... I said, I'm gonna play with the Cubs, and that'll take care of everything.

But he says I can just git educated first ... says his Oak Park Federal Savings account is going to bloom into a college education for me ... says I'll be old enough to appreciate it by then. He's pretty smart, and he's always right. And after all, it's his money. He says he likes to see it available and safe. Sounds like a pretty good argument.

New Super Food Market Caters to Epicurean Diets

Suburban diners are taking to the lobster with the delight of tenth-generation New Englanders.

Sales of the sharp-clawed denizens of the deep are astonishingly good, reports Maynard Todd, manager of the delicatessen at the Jewel food mart which opened in April in Arlington Market.

Many housewives are obviously trying the delicacy for the first time, as requests for recipes are frequent, he said. Their families must be cracking the shells and eating the richly-flavored meat with relish, for repeat orders are now coming in. Sales vary from 150 to 250 weekly.

BY THE TIME the live crustaceans are lowered into a tank of salt water at the delicatessen, they are two or three days and 1200 miles away from their birthplace on the Atlantic shelf, off Massachusetts.

"The lobsters are shipped in three times a week in barrels containing 40 each," noted Todd. "They come by rail or air express, packed in cracked ice and seaweed."

Upon arrival the barrels must be unloaded carefully from trucks.

"Too much jarring will kill them," reported their keeper.

Todd first unpacks the lobsters, a ticklish job when some of them have shaken out pegs holding their claws fast and commenced to tangle with their mates. He then washes each one under a stream of cold water and gingerly places it, holding it by the back, into a tank of water kept at a temperature of 40 degrees.

THE BATH IS repeated each morning during the 10-day life of the lobster in the tank, provided he or she is not sold first. When live the lobsters have a greenish, dappled shell. Todd cooks them to order in a specially-designed steam pot for six minutes.

Cooking turns them into a brilliant orange-red color.

To eat the whitish meat, the claws are removed and the soft underbelly slit down the middle and the green veins removed. Todd, a Jewel produce man prior to taking company training in delicatessen management, recommends eating them warm as broiled lobster or chilled in salads.

Or if you want to try something unusual, he suggests lobster Newburgh. (BB

'Buy a Home First' Campaign Launched by Northwest Realtors

Local realtors are planning to participate with thousands of others throughout the country in a "Buy a Home—First" campaign now being launched by the National Association of Real Estate boards, Neal T. Dean, president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, said today.

The campaign is an intensive effort to tell the public of the value and importance of buying a home first, Dean explained.

Realtors across the nation will promote the slogan "Buy a Home—First" through special advertising in the various media, display posters, stickers for correspondence and windows, distribution of pamphlets, "open houses," and special programs.

"A HOME IS THE best buy on the market today," Dean declared, "Real estate values generally, more than any others, hold their own whether it is the day of the declining dollar or the era of hard money."

The realtor observed that home ownership traditionally has been and will continue to be a sound long-range investment and an excellent hedge against sustained inflationary periods.

Making monthly payments on a home, he noted, is the easiest and surest form of savings for the average family.

Those who overemphasize the debt obligation of home ownership tend to overlook the fact that in the course of years, the home reduces the principal of the mortgage and gains considerable equity, Dean continued. The fluidity of the existing home market usually makes this equity available as cash within a very short time, he noted.

"MORE THAN ONE couple," said Dean, "who bought a home first has found that by the time their children were ready for college, they had their home completely paid for and were ready to finance that all important higher education. In retirement they were able to sit back with peace of mind in a payment-free place of their own."

Dean pointed out that a home owner enjoys also some substantial advantages at income tax time. Mortgage interest payments and real estate taxes are deductible from federal and some state income tax returns, he stated.

THERE ARE ALSO many intangible benefits realized from home ownership, the board president said, such as a sense of "belonging" to the community, responsibility and independence.

And don't forget possible benefits for the children, he reminded.

"Allowed to live in the same community for a series of years, to attend the same schools, to form social contacts and friendships with children of other responsible citizens, they have greater social and moral potential than have the children of itinerants," Dean observed.

Dean suggested the safest and surest way for local citizens to get the best home buy for their money is to see members of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

"THEY ARE ETHICALLY obligated to protect both the interests of the buyer and seller, and are subject to severe penalties if they do not," he explained, "Because of their experience, integrity, and knowledge of the market, realtors are in the best position to be of service to the prospective home buyer."

Names of brokers who are Realtors may be obtained by calling Neal T. Dean, Flanders 8-1200. (BB

'You Can Count On Her'

by Betty Thackery — CLearbrook 3-1916

South Mount Prospect

Brownie troop 499 became a full-fledged scout troop May 26 at Wilder Creek's Wapella Avenue park, Mt. Prospect. After a brief well-wishing ceremony from their outgoing leader, Mrs. Jan Williams, the girls were admonished to "fly up."

Each brownie crossed over the bridge to be met by Mrs. Hertha Peterson, outgoing co-leader and the new leader, Mrs. June Montgomery. They received their girl scout pins and World Association pins.

THE CEREMONY was highlighted by a candlelight service during which the girls repeated their motto, laws and slogan. After refreshments were served the girls received gifts from their mothers of head bands and coin holders.

It was announced that Mrs. Alice Pauling would serve as co-leader for the coming year.

Brownie troops are being organized on Mt. Prospect's south side. Anyone interested may call CLearbrook 3-1243, the residence of Mrs. D. Lindskog.

North Palatine

Tuesday, May 27, Mrs. William Siler, leader, and Mrs. William Dietrich, co-leader, took troop 130 to Camp Pine for a cookout. The girls prepared fruit cocktail baked potato and chicken. Second class badges were awarded to all girls.

Thursday, May 29, scout troop 268 held its last meeting of the year at Deer Grove. A cook-out was the highlight of the picnic. The girls cooked hot dogs, fried potatoes and topped off the meal with, "some mores."

South Arlington Heights

Brownie troop 189 entertained their mothers at a fly-up ceremony Wednesday, May 28 in the auditorium at Pioneer Park. Each mother received a paper carnation made by the girls. The program consisted of the presentation of the flag; a puppet show, "Girl Scouting," in which each member participated with her own individual hand-made puppet; the singing of "Girl Scouts Together" by the troop; the awarding of the service pins by their leader, Mrs. George Arndt and co-leader Mrs. William Swaby; the inducting, candlelighting and presenting of the Girl Scout Wings by Mrs. Arndt and Mrs. James McCarty.

Prospect Heights

The fly-up ceremony for troop 376, consisting of 13 fourth grade girls, was held Friday evening, May 23 in Prospect Heights Community church. Fifty parents and relatives attended. After the flag ceremony, the brownies gave the brownie promise and sang the "Brownie Smile Song."

The candlelight ceremony highlighted the program with each girl lighting a candle for the 10 girl scout laws and the 3 parts of the girl scout promise. Mrs. D. A. Cameron, 307 E. Circle dr., presented the wings, the brownies crossed over the bridge, built especially for fly-up ceremonies by Robert Morton of 11 Wildwood dr., and Mrs. Leslie Carne pinned on the girl scout pins.

MRS. CARNE, the troop leader, gave a talk about the three parts of the Girl Scout Promise and how the girls have entered into a comradeship that will prove beneficial to them all of their lives.

South Palatine

Troop 506 held a "fly up" ceremony recently at the home of Sandra Nicklas. The girls who were welcomed into scouting were Sandra Nicklas, Meredith Danforth, Carole Colley, Joan Dudzisk, Kay Kaeemayer, Candy Morris, Sharon Kelley, Jean Gammelgard, Sally Billow, Marilyn Savage, Mary Steiner, Nancy Kileen and Nancy Leviska. Leaders are Mrs. Evie Kovacs, Mrs. Marge Stibgen and Mrs. Jessalyn Nicklas.

Cookies and punch were served to the parents and friends attending.

Troop 207 held its final meeting of the year Monday, May 26, at Deer Grove. The scouts and their families enjoyed a picnic supper and an evening of games and fun.

Mexican-American Youth Hear Value of Education

The importance of education and "service" was emphasized Saturday night by John A. Graham of Barrington, Republican candidate for state senator from the third district.

He was a guest of honor and speaker at the first annual banquet and ball sponsored by Junior League of United Latin American Citizens. The affair honoring June high school graduates was held at the Shoreland hotel, Chicago, under auspices of Junior councils from Wisconsin, Illinois, and Indiana.

A senior LULAC council was recently organized in northwest suburbs. The league is a group designed to help meet needs of Mexican-American citizens.

"EDUCATION doesn't come easy," declared Graham. "Our struggles are parallel. Very few people attain anything of consequence without working. People who have contributed the most to our society are those who have had to work as a group or a race."

Describing education as the "protection of our most priceless possession, our children," Graham urged the graduates to continue their schooling into college.

Referring to the handicaps of discrimination which sometimes confront Mexican-Americans, he added: "And remember that we're all God's children. In your journey through life remember that I, as well as you, we all are God's children, created equal in our capacity to achieve success. But we must take advantage of the opportunity of education in order to realize the promise of that capacity."

"We are all here for a purpose," he concluded. "That purpose is the thought I want to leave with you tonight to remember in whatever endeavor you might undertake. It is this: to serve is one of man's greatest honors."

GRAHAM WAS invited to address the graduates because of his interest in the problems of Mexican-Americans and his vigorous support of legislation to establish minimum health and housing standards for migrant farm workers, most of whom are Mexican-American.

Another guest of honor at the banquet fwas Charles Hayes, managing editor of Paddock Publications and co-author with Tom Brennan of a series of articles describing the plight of Mexican-Americans in northwest suburbs. It was as a result of their articles that The Opportunity Council and a new LULAC chapter were both established.

Other speakers at the dinner Saturday included Hon. Joseph Mezar, juvenile judge of Indiana; John G. Henneberger, trustee of Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago; Rev. Father Severino Lopez, state chaplain for LULAC; Rev. Cesar Mascarenas, minister of First Mexican Baptist church, East Chicago, Ind.; and Rev. Father McPolin, chaplain of the St. Jude League.

Former Businessman Earns Bachelor of Divinity Degree

Guest minister in the pulpit of the Presbyterian church of Arlington Heights Sunday was a former loop businessman and Arlington Heights resident, Roger Kellogg, who on June 6 will receive his bachelor of divinity degree from the Princeton theological seminary in New Jersey.

During the family's membership in the local church, Mr. Kellogg was active in several of the church organizations, serving at one time as superintendent of the junior high department.

He studied evenings at the Moody Bible institute in Chicago and in the fall of 1955, gave up a successful position as executive with a New York insurance company to begin a 3-year course of study for the ministry to prepare for full-time service in the church.

THEN IN HIS early 40's, Mr. Kellogg, with his wife and three children, left Arlington Heights for Pennington, N. J. where the family has made its home during Mr. Kellogg's course at the Princeton seminary. The family will leave New Jersey soon after his graduation for a new home in Glen Moore, Pa., where Mr. Kellogg will be ordained and installed June 20 as minister of the Forks of the Brandywine Presbyterian church.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. Kellogg and their daughter, Leslie, and son, Michael, arrived here Friday and met again with Arlington Heights friends Saturday evening at a reception given for them by Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Smith, 611 W. Wing, with whom the Kelloggs stayed for the weekend. Sunday morning Mr. Kellogg preached on the subject, "The Quest for Peace," and met in the afternoon with young people of the church interested in a church vocation as a career. Sunday evening the Kellogg family returned to New Jersey. (B8

Youth Wins Thespian Honors

ROBERT G. PETERS

Florida Southern college's dramatic club, The Vagabonds, selected Robert Gary Peters of Arlington Heights as the best actor of the school year during its annual banquet on the Frank Lloyd Wright-designed campus.

Peters, a junior, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Peters, 1122 E. McDonald, Arlington Heights, won the award for his performance as Henry Higgins in George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion," one of four productions put on by The Vagabonds during the 1957-58 academic year.

Robert Gary is a business major at Florida Southern and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He was graduated from Arlington high school.

In Peters' portrayal of Henry Higgins in George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion," Drama Critic H. R. Cook wrote, "Peters as Henry Higgins, the British 'phonetic enthusiast' who engineered tyranically but successfully Eliza's metamorphosis, was immaculately articulate and contemptuously improper.

"As the confirmed bachelor and dedicated phonetics purist Peters proved to be a craftsman who understood the brittle delicacies of the Shavian concept and the deft touch essential to the role. A perfectionist was evidently at work."

At the present time, Peters is also serving as the vice president of Kappa Pi, national honorary art fraternity. He is also a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, national social fraternity, in which he is senior representative to the upper council. (CC

Developer Tries to Dodge County Building Standards

The first case has come to light of a construction company stung by the legal warfare over "crazy-quilt" road annexations by villages.

Lansdowne Construction company has a fist-full of "now-worthless" building permits issued by Hickory Hills, plus a total investment of $287,500 tied up in land and 17 unfinished homes and nowhere to turn, except the courts.

The homes were started after the land was annexed by Hickory Hills in June, 1957, along with roads leading to the property. But last March, Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher held the annexations illegal because they weren't contiguous to the village. The land automatically became unincorporated area again under county building and zoning jurisdiction. The property is classified as a farming district under county zoning.

BECAUSE THE company failed to obtain county building permits, William J. Mortimer, county building and zoning officer, dispatched a stop-work order. It caught the builder with the homes about 81 per cent complete.

After several conferences with officials in various county departments, the Lansdowne company complained in a suit filed last week in Superior court that it's been able to obtain neither county building permits nor necessary rezoning.

The firm seeks a writ of mandamus commanding Mortimer to issue building permits for the 17 homes under construction on part of 38 acres on 81st court and 82nd ave., south of 103nd st., in Palos township.

THE SUIT SAID Mortimer the builder obtained rezoning. would allow work to proceed if The company has tried that but Walter Popjoy, zoning board secretary, won't accept the rezoning application, the suit said.

Popjoy refused the application for R-4 residential district (minimum lot size 10,000 square feet) because the County Board in September, 1955, passed an order that no more septic tanks are to be allowed on lots of less than 20,000 square feet in land area, the suit said.

The Lansdowne company's lots with the 17 homes contain at least 10,000 square feet, according to the suit, but the parcels have septic tanks.

Arlingtones to Compete In Area Contest June 22

Arlington Heights chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, SPEBSQSA for short, extends an invitation to all men who like Barber Shop ballads, to attend its next meeting, Monday, June 9.

The "Arlingtone" chapter is made up of men from all walks of life who live and work in this area and who like to sing and listen to songs sung in the Barber Shop harmony style. This style of singing which is as truly American as the once popular minstrel show reached its peak of development during the "Gay 90's.

After the turn of the century, however, its popularity decreased and was saved from extinction only by the vaudevillians and a few private citizens who loved the harmonious manner in which tales of sweethearts, home, and love were told.

ALMOST 40 YEARS went by before a new trend in American singing taste was heard. By this time there were so many privately organized Barber Shop quartets making such a clamor that they had to be recognized.

JUNE 22, the "Arlingtones" will do its part to preserve and encourage Barber Shop quartet singing by competing in the area 11 contest which, this year, is thrown open for public viewing. Three other choruses will be competing for this year's top honors. These choruses are Skokie Valley, Pioneer, and Town and Country. The program will be rounded out by the singing of four top notch quartets who have won state and national fame.

The Arlingtones meet every Monday at 8 p.m. in the Arlington Heights American Legion hall. Anyone interested is welcome to attend. No voice tests or auditions are ever given and further information may be obtained by calling CL 5-1797.

The Way We See It

LULAC Deserves Support of Area

Of all the publicity devoted to suburbia's Mexican-American population these past few months, none is more encouraging than the announcement of the formation of a LULAC council in Bensenville to serve these residents in northwest suburbs.

LULAC is the League of United Latin American Citizens, an ethnic organization established 30 years ago to help meet the expanding needs of Mexican-Americans. It is non-partisan in politics and religion.

LULAC has been particularly strong in the southwest, and only recently began organizational work in the midwest. Its accomplishments are considerable, its aspirations commendable.

The league believes in the democratic principle of individual political and religious freedom, in the right to equality of social and economic opportunity. But at the same time, it urges its membership to "rely upon the framework of human progress, slow and sound, unequivocal and firm."

In stressing that education is the foundation for the cultural growth and development of this nation, the league states that "we are obligated to protect and promote the education of our people in accordance with the best American principles and standards." Thus LULAC encourages the learning and understanding of English, recognition of civic duties and responsibility, intelligent participation in community life.

Declares the LULAC code: "Learn how to discharge your duties before you learn how to assert your rights; educate and make yourself worthy, standing high in the light of your own deeds."

League of United Latin American Citizens believes in cooperation with other civic and service groups in the fields of public service and social action. Thus they are working closely with The Opportunity Council in tackling Mexican-American problems in northwest suburbs.

LULAC's conservative, intelligent approach is particularly commendable at a time when the irresponsible, the radical, and the rabblerouser are over-eager to seize upon any opportunity to exploit the misfortunes of a minority group and put them to personal advantage.

We are pleased to congratulate LULAC on the establishment of its new northwest suburban council, and especially upon its rapid growth. It deserves the enthusiastic support, not only of residents with Mexican-American heritage, but of all suburbanites interested in better citizenship and finer communities.

Mental Hospitals

Much publicity has been given in recent weeks to Illinois' deteriorating mental hospitals. Our state has the dubious distinction of having some of the most poorly staffed and ill-equipped institutions in the country.

Part of this plight is due to state legislators who keep a tight rein on meager hospital purse strings; part of it is due to a woeful lack of interest on the part of the taxpayer who permits such conditions to exist unchallenged.

There is a desperate need for reorganizing and supplementing our mental institutions in Illinois. Acutely ill patients should be treated more and more in general hospital psychiatric wards, as is being done in many communities.

We should treat long-term, chronically-ill patients in the present state hospitals, but continue to modernize them and rigidly hold new mental hospitals to 1,000 or at the most 1,500 bed units. These institutions should be supplemented with day hospitals, night hospitals, half-way houses, rehabilitation and after-cure clinics.

And finally, we should begin investing a great deal more public and private funds in research and in the training of psychiatric personnel, for it is the dividends from this last investment which could make possible some day shutting down of the huge public mental hospitals once and for all.

Female Traitor

In reply in your "female traitor," I find myself compelled to agree in substance. However, aren't the remarks applicable to all suburbanites—men included—and perhaps much of the urban and rural population of the United States? We are becoming a race of isolationists—that is, isolated by our own numerous duplicating trivial community activities from the rest of the world and even from ourselves. So busy are we with home maintenance, organizations for organizations' sake, acquisition of ever more material possessions and keeping up with the neighbors, that we are not even aware of the broader problems of humanity, let alone problems of our own psyche.

What "Mrs. Anonymous" is really bewailing, of course, is her own wasted life. Let her (and us) begin a reassessment now. Those hour-long telephone calls CAN be cut short and TV CAN be switched off. If she finds her husband and children aggravating, maybe she ought to get off the "church-PTA-scout circuit" and devote some honest and unhurried thought to them. Perhaps if she spends more time with her own children and less with other peoples' in the countless organizations of suburbia, she will rediscover what fun families can have together.

As a final rejoinder—please, in her dissatisfaction, let not Mrs. A. pick on the eggheads. She may not like or understand them, but in these days when the by-word seems to be Mediocrity for All, Brilliance for None, let her give the eggheads credit for knowing what they're talking about, even if she doesn't!

Telephone Pests

A recent issue of the PALATINE ENTERPRISE carried an article on the front page regarding the coming of spring and the door-to-door solicitors. The village takes precautions against unauthorized solicitors and I am sure all residents appreciate this. But, tell me, what can be done about the telephone solicitors who invade our homes without identification badges?

How many times do we housewives take our hands out of the dish water, run in from the garden, or leave the laundry activities in the basement to answer the phone only to find someone on the other end of the wire who wants to sell a home delivery of the Chicago Tribune, or awnings, or carpeting, or combination storm windows and screens, or build a garage.

Personally, I object to having my telephone used for this purpose. I have, on occasion, after carefully taking the name of the caller and the name of the firm he represents, told some such solicitors that we keep a record of all who solicit by telephone in order that we make sure we never buy from these firms.

This, unfortunately, does not solve the problem.

I note that the classified section of the local newspaper carries ads in the "help wanted" column for people to do telephone soliciting.

I am fairly sure that there is no law against telephone soliciting, but is there any way it can be discouraged, or is this just one of the penalties one pays for having a telephone?

He's Single

I read with interest Mr. Hayes' "objective" appraisal of suburban women last week. Well, all I can say is that he is either extraordinarily courageous or else a bachelor.

Woman's Purpose

I have just finished reading Charles Hayes' article of May 29 with curiosity and pity. Curious to know the particular family role of this organization leader. Pity that she understands so little the real purpose of a woman's life. When you are a happy wife and mother then the true "dull, humdrum, trapped Existence," which at times necessarily comes with this occupation, would not discourage, depress nor dismay. Tis sad for the one who believes so.

I fit in Category I—the Stay-At-Homes . . . In time I shall probably graduate to the Church-PTA-Scout circuit. She gave an accurate picture of the situation with a few exceptions. Our grandmother is out of town so we miss that pleasure; and there are days when I'm not always free to have my weekly Jewel vista. However, we are trying to get a lawn started in the backyard. Although I naturally have a few favorite TV programs, I find it a poor substitute for people and conversation. Fortunately I found time today to read the paper or else I would have missed this juicy article!

It should be obvious that women with small babies at home cannot drive their husbands to the train station. In fact they are still a few women who don't drive and seem to survive the day without a car. AND I have yet to meet the busy mother who can spend four to five hours a day on the phone!

My baby day usually starts at 6 a.m. and ends at 8 p.m. during which there is feeding, changing, crying, fighting and playing. There are times it is very busy, tiring and hectic—but always satisfying. It so happens I love my life and know of nobody with whom I'd care to trade. It's the role for which The Lord created me and I'm very grateful.

For over a decade I was a care-free, so-called career girl whose biggest worry was selecting the most appealing travel folder each summer vacation. They were enjoyable years, but the pleasures were fleeting and temporary.

To me there is no greater challenge in life than managing a nice, happy home and rearing children to be fine, decent, worthwhile people. I'm sure there's many a great leader today because his mother led such a "dull, humdrum, trapped, stay-at-home" HAPPY life!

Deplores 'Sarcasm'

I am wondering who threw the wet blanket on the wonderfully planned teenage affair of last week to Lake Geneva and wrote the sarcastic article published in our local paper.

Before I continue, let me state my only child, a daughter, is married and the mother of a 10-year-old boy, so you will realize I have no personal feeling in what I am about to write.

The party who did all the arithmetic—so many bottles of pop, so many sandwiches, so many cars to make up the train, so many photo flashes, so many reporters, mass circulation magazines, wire services, etc.—didn't stop to think how wonderful they must have figured the affair was to have taken such an interest.

That trainful of happy, safe kids was worth it if it saved just one life in this automobile age.

Speaking of the streak of grey the writer sees on the horizon, I venture to say he or she sees streaks of grey on many things in life. Better not cross that bridge until you get to it because if your coming teenagers grow up sweet and unspoiled, I feel sure a difference of a year or two won't require that they demand a cruise to Mackinac Island, rent the Sante Fe Super Chief, take a safari to Africa, dance atop the Eiffel Tower or last but not least, jet to the North Pole. There are plenty more such trips right here and more lakes.

I think we should be grateful to the people who planned it all and thank goodness those teenagers were so happy over it.

Hill's Mistake

The theme of my letter is "Kimball Hill's Biggest Mistake" or "Older Area Residents Dilemma."

Time and again there have been articles in the Rolling Meadows Herald regarding the "children on the street." It has always been stated the lack of parental discipline was to blame. There is one thing that our police, civic leaders and city authorities seem to overlook and that is, the "Lack of sidewalks on both sides of the street."

In order for our children to get to their playmates' homes, on the same side of the street, they must walk on the street. The neighbors dislike having them cutting across their lawn and we have tried to teach them to respect their wishes and "Go around" their front lawn.

We are unable to teach them one of the first rules of safety, "Only cross at the corner." They would have to walk on the street a full block before they got to the corner.

Yesterday I was out with my 19-month-old daughter. Every time she walked toward the street and made a motion to step off the curb I spanked her. A half hour later I visited a neighbor and took her along. While walking on the street (because of the lack of sidewalks) I had the thought, "this is ridiculous, here I am walking her on the street and just a few minutes ago I was spanking her for going near it."

This situation also promotes very poor "neighbor relations." Time and again we have heard remarks such as "Why don't you keep your kids on your side of the street" or "Get your kids and their bikes off our sidewalk." The poor children have to ride their bikes, roller skate and play hop-scotch on a sidewalk and the only sidewalk is "Across the street."

I realize some families may knowingly allow their children to play out on the street but I strongly suspect they are few. Most of the families are quite conscientious about this situation.

If anyone has a suggestion as to how our children can play on the sidewalks and visit with their playmates, without going out on the street, we would appreciate hearing them.

The pointed newspaper articles, such as the one last week, have never given our problem any consideration. As the police themselves have said, "Newer residents tend to keep their children off the street." It is also true that the newer residents have sidewalks on both sides of the street!

Perhaps the next time one of our civic leaders has the urge to release another tirade against we "poor parents" he will give a thought to this entire subject first.

Mrs. Robert W. Seelbach

You're Welcome

The letter published in the May 29th issue of the local paper, from "Long Suffering, Mt. Prospect" interested us greatly. Not only would I appreciate the opportunity to enlighten her, but also the people who have been subjected to her bitterness towards a community, of which she is not a resident, thank goodness.

Fact No. 1:

My husband and I bought in Prospect Heights nearly two years ago. In this time, we have yet to have to "buckle on our holsters and six guns," to step outside. Not that we're "bullet proof," but we've simply never had a reason to.

Fact No. 2:

We live in a subdivided area of approximately 65 homes. In this group of homes are 65 lovely neighbors. Neighbors are what you make them. Several of our neighbors own dogs; and not a single dog is allowed to run untied. The dog owners have gone to great expense, buying fences, so as to prevent their pets from becoming a menace to the neighborhood.

Fact No. 3:

Regarding our abuse of vacant lots, by dumping garbage, I have this to say:

We have an established garbage company, that comes once weekly to collect the waste from our homes. It's really a good thing too, because we would surely run out of vacant lots after the way they are selling for NEW HOMES IN OUR COMMUNITY.

Fact No. 4:

Our slogan is "Community With Unity;" and in our May 24th vote to incorporate our lovely community, 1,214 residents, seemed to like it just as it is. That's quite a majority, I'd say.

Fact No. 5:

I really can't blame you for signing your name as "Long Suffering, Mt. Prospect." If we paid your taxes, we'd be "Long Suffering" too.

So, if you're so unhappy in Mt. Prospect, "Come-on-a our house." We Prospect Heighters, are a right friendly little group of people.

Gripe of Husbands

That article on the female's blast on her own sex omitted one important characteristic. The stay-at-homes also spend a good deal of time comparing gripes about their husbands.

The story, while obviously written with a tongue-in-cheek attitude, did have some substance. And I'm sure there will be that hue and cry raised by the women which the reporter anticipated. Ah well, guilty consciences, girls?

Ruth M. Marcus

Hard-Working Women

I'll say we don't agree with your lady informer! The average housewife is a composite of all her so-called "types" and being a composite, she leads a very full and happy life.

First of all, a housewife's life should center around her home and children. After all, isn't a woman the very heart of the family? She reads quite a bit with the little extra time she has. She subscribes to "Parents" and "Better Homes and Gardens." She does read the daily newspaper (perhaps at 10 or 11 p. m. when the household finally quiets down, but she does read it and not just the comics and ads.) Sometimes she even keeps up with the latest books. (Thanks to Readers' Digest.)

Our housewife belongs to church, PTA or scout groups, not because "it is the thing to do" but because she is intensely interested in her community and its welfare.

In conclusion, this "ordinary" housewife resents being called worthless. What is wrong with being completely absorbed with home and family? How can her life be dull when there just aren't enough hours in the day for all her plans?

Mrs. Jo Williams
Rolling Meadows.

Suburban Housewife

This has become pretty ridiculous! Isn't there some other subject that warrants the amount of criticism as does the suburban housewife?

My answer to one phase of this question was published in the Fence Post and at the risk of repeating myself but keeping it concise (I really doubt I could claim a full page) I have only this to say.

I, too, was the head of a woman's organization and visited a great many homes in Rolling Meadows and feel that I am qualified to give a rebuttal.

Your informant furnished you with four types:

1—Stay-at-Homes—I have found usually have good reason. Either their husbands want them that way, (and it is amazing how many husbands are like that) or they have had many children in a short period of time and lack the physical stamina to do more than care for family and home.

2—Social type of gadfly is many times misunderstood. Usually with all children in school and fairly ahead of the financial rat-race and therefore has the time for leisure activities. (And I'm jealous!)

3—Church—PTA—Scout Circuit—Granted that many join these groups with the "social outlet" in mind, but they soon find each is a hard-working organization. Just attend any church, PTA or scout meeting and you'll see what I mean.

4—The Girlish Egghead—Let's face it! The female sex is not perfect (as much as I hate to admit it) and this type is quite elastic! They are worriers and may do nothing but talk about issues over teacups, but at least they are concerned and put the "bee in the bonnet" of those who have the personality and fortitude to follow through.

She also spoke of the trademarks of the suburban housewife as being the car and phone. I would be more inclined to say a couple of clothes lines of diapers, some well adjusted children, a happy and harmonious union with her husband and a well meaning, interested attitude. How anyone can call this a pretty worthless lot is beyond my comprehension.

The American housewife, suburban or otherwise, is truly the "Unsung Hero!" And I guarantee you will find as many husbands as there are housewives who will agree with me.

Bring in the milk, back out the car, change the baby, breakfast done, so far. Laundry, dishes, vacuum and beds, pull up the pants and tie those keds. Answer the phone, break up those fights, apply a band-aid and untangle those kites. Pull up the pants and flush the potty, think about lunch and then you go nutty. Take a deep breath, spread peanut butter and jelly. Angels asleep, go visit ill Nellie.

Iron the clothes, have a pause, be a sinner! Take a bath, pull up pants, then you make dinner. Dishes done, weary, but kids are in bed, give husband a kiss, enough said!

Monica D. Glass

Cold Water Tossed

I just read your nasty little bit of cold water throwing on page 8 of your Mt. Prospect Herald. Are we so old that we can not look back on our days of graduation? During the scant years after the depression, didn't everyone say the teens were going to the dogs by their silly spending? Even further back wasn't it disgraceful when the neighbor's boy took his girl to the Saturday night dance alone in the horseless carriage? Well, let's be BIG. Why not smile and say well done—the kids had a ball and for once pat someone on the back for a really good, clean, supervised and wonderful idea for after the prom?

It seems to me that so many people are suffering these days from the "heart sinkers" malady that if these people with pre-school children instead of casting aspersions on a good thing would start saving for that day when their kids do go out for a good clean time instead of bridge clubbing it up all day after spending the morning over coffee and winding up with cocktails till midnight they would be doing more than worrying about a really great event.

It seems to me that there is just a little green of jealousy for fear someone won't have a new idea by the time their kids are grown. If they keep up with the world and science perhaps in this wonderful land we live in those supposedly ridiculous "trips to Mexico," etc. may be possible for $20. What do you say let's drown out the "heart sinkers" with a loud WELL DONE!

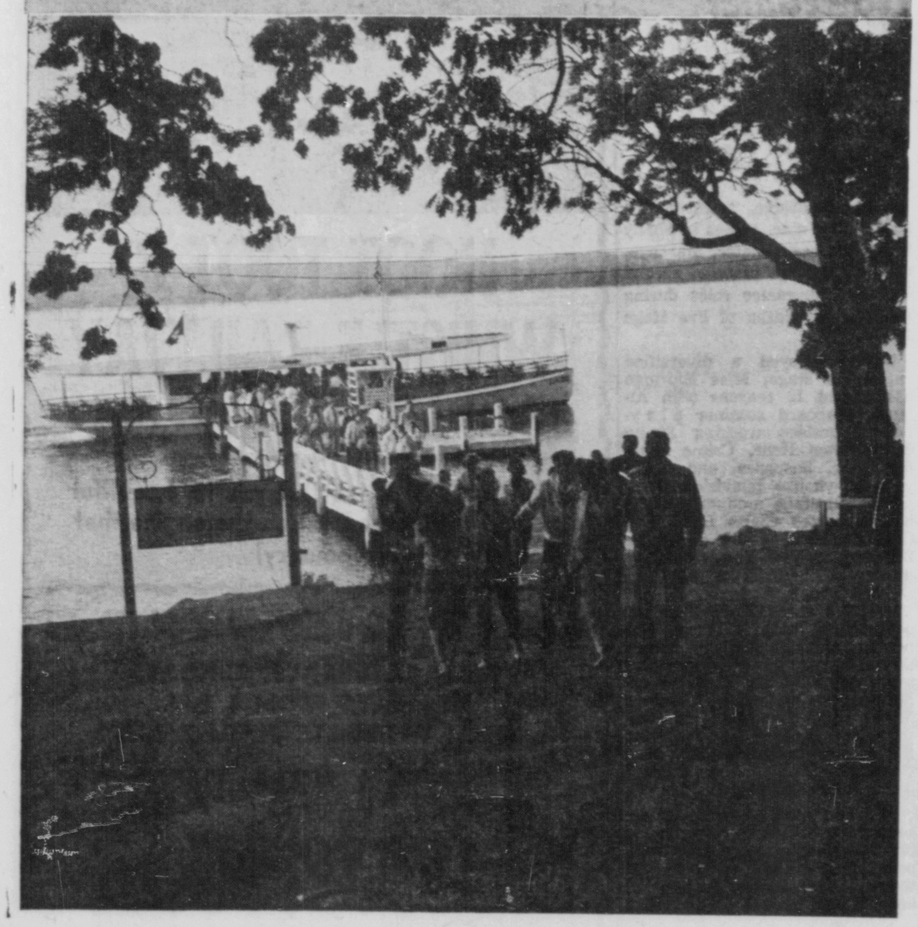
THE GREAT SUBURBAN TRAIN RIDE



(Paddock Publications Photos by James Conley)

If Mama and Papa don't always know best, they at least know how to plan a party.

None of the 812 Arlington high school teens who attended the "After the Prom" party the weekend of May 23 can doubt their elders' ability to stage an entertainment "whopper."

Nothing less could describe the unprecedented 36-hour Promathon which local parents planned to solve the problem of "what to do" after the annual Junior-Senior formal.

"What-to-do" was a question which needed no answer. After attending the prom at Medinah country club, students began the "most fabulous" party ever designed.

Nothing was overlooked. The First Presbyterian church provided facilities wherein the students could "check" their bags containing sport clothing prior to the Prom. After the dance, the church opened its doors to the girls, who changed from their formal attire. Boys dressed in the church gym, and members of the Junior Women's clubs tagged all clothing so that parents could pick it up Saturday morning.

The Methodist church put even the larger restaurants to shame as its kitchen facilities turned out some 2800 sandwiches to be eaten on the "Great North Western Train Ride" to George Williams College camp at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

The Catholic church provided a special Ember Day dispensation, allowing the youngsters to eat meat twice Saturday, a day of abstinence. The sandwiches, stored in a local supermarket, were tested by a biochemist to insure against food poisoning.

Parents of juniors and seniors spent months planning the event, secured the support of civic groups, and, as extra precaution, had the whole affair insured for $400,000 by Lloyds of London.

When the sports clothes-clad youngsters reached the depot, a 12-car special train was waiting. And what a train!

The Gay 90's, the romance of Hawaii, the charm of the Orient, the color of South America, and the promise of college were all captured in the decorations on which 100 mothers had worked two days.

Laden with dancing, wonder-struck teens, the caravan chugged along at a 10 m.p.h. clip in order to reach the destination at the prescribed time, 6 a.m. The sandwiches, and some 6,200 bottles of pop, were consumed by a well-behaved bunch of youths, having the time of their lives.

Providing music for the mobile swing set was Norm Krone's orchestra, ordinarily engaged by the Palmer House and the Boulevard Room. Each baggage car had its own combo, and recording stars Jo Ann Miller and Gale Robbins literally sang the night away.

Arriving at Lake Geneva, the students had their drooping eyes opened by a rousing march. Williams Bay high school's band met the dawn arrivals, who rushed across the road to board boats for trip to the camp.

After a breakfast of ham and eggs, the Prommers divided into groups of golfers, tennis-lovers, a few daring swimmers, and other sport enthusiasts.

At noon the teens, who were now beginning to slacken their pace, enjoyed a Western style oxroast and barbecue on the "Top of the Hill." "All-aboard" was sounded at 2:30, and a weary, well-fed mass of stragglers sought a place to rest on the trip home.

Most of the planning was done by N. F. "Bud" Sherman, whose "brainstorm" was the project. Students voiced their appreciation with what they termed the world's largest "thank you" note, signed by most of the participants.

THE CAMP'S 9-HOLE GOLF COURSE was available, and Marty Gatts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Gatts, 321 Drury lane, Mount Prospect, applies the 2 wood as boy friend caddy, Greg Rose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Rose, 100 Drury lane, Arlington Heights, observes.

A WESTERN STYLE OXROAST BARBECUE was the noontime attraction. Marty and Greg seem to have worked up an appetite after the morning's recreation. Who's carving?

Hawaiian car (above) was one of 12 decorated in a particular theme. Looking at the hundreds of balloons are Robert Gay, 202 Marion, Prospect Heights, in yachting cap, and seniors Ken Colburn and Phyllis Komondoris. Mr. Gay has senior daughter.

R. B. Rasmussen, 202 Windsor dr., Arlington Heights, mother of senior boy and sophomore girl. W. D. Starnes, 605 Burton, Arlington Heights, and Gil Liebenow, 400 N. Main, Mount Prospect, help decorate Oriental Cafe car. Both are fathers of senior boys.

Below, Norm Krone's band agreed that the "party" was quite different from the Boulevard room. Keeping in style with the Hawaiian car, members of a combo wear island apparel for the appreciation of vocalist Bernice Gordon.

In upper left hand corner parents are busy working on car decorations. Putting finishing touches on poster in "Joe College" car is Mrs.

At lower left students are shown as they finished boat trip from depot to camp. A hearty breakfast greeted the Prommers, whose day was just beginning.

820 ARLINGTON HIGH TEENS ate here. And a hearty meal it was, too, as shown by the size and number of paper plates. Food costs were included in the price of the "party," 21 dollars per couple.

"GENTLE SLEEP which ravels up the sleeve of care." Marty and Greg succumb to weariness after crowding a week's fun into a day and a half.

Hospitals Are Democratic; Services Available to All

by PAUL ZEHNER

All people are entitled to the hospital care they need regardless of race, creed or economic ability.

This is at the heart of the philosophy of most hospitals in the United States.

Harvey Schoenfeld, director of Barnett Memorial hospital in Paterson, N. J., states, "The strength of the nation lies in strengthening and broadening the voluntary hospital system to insure its benefits to all who may need it and who may freely select the best practitioner and hospital. This will make for a better future for all with greater personal security and a more productive life."

OUR COMMUNITY is now building a voluntary hospital. Perhaps the real meaning of this hospital has not dawned on us. Certainly there will be a deeper understanding of the value of the voluntary hospital when the first patients from the community receive its services, and when the community is aware for the first time that it has a hospital of its own. And if sickness strikes at home, we understand even more the meaning of the voluntary hospital near us.

Schoenfeld also states that our country depends on healthy citizens. Ask industry about his. Why does industry furnish doctors for employees or require medical checkups for their top administrators. It used to be that industry could count on an individual as a top administrator for about 10 years. Then he was ready for the undertaker. Industry realizes that human talents aren't so plentiful and that sick people don't produce.

HOW HAVE hospitals contributed to productivity. In grandfather's day, a sick person averaged 50 to 60 days in the hospital. Today a person averages nine days. It doesn't take a mathematical genius to figure the value of this to industry and to the individual. Not only is productivity increased, but also the individual has a paycheck during a period which he might spend in the hospital.

You will say that patients were treated at home more frequently in the old days. True. But diseases kept these people confined longer. Most of us remember when pneumonia cases confined the patient for months. More often the patient died. Today it is likely the patient will live, and he will be at work in two weeks.

THE OLD MAXIM, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," states the case for the hospital today as a center for community health. Prevention of disease is important in the program of today's hospital. It would be difficult to estimate the value of prevention of disease to our productivity.

Modern hospitals are equipped to help guide parents in the care of their children, in suggesting means of preventing disease, and in furnishing immunity to disease through inoculations. A general hospital in our community will, as Schoenfeld says, "make for a better future for all with greater personal security and a more productive life." (B8

"THIS WILL BE my first experience in midwest stock companies, although I have played this area with road shows doing one-nighters," Miss Eldridge explained. Playhouse Will Present Summer Array of Stars

The Edgewater Beach playhouse, on the beach walk of the Edgewater Beach hotel, will present the greatest array of stars in the history of Chicago's summer theater in its five-play ten-week season opening June 23-July 5 with Burgess Meredith in "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker."

Stars include Meredith, Melvyn Douglas, Ann Sheridan, Menasha Skulnik, and probably Terry Moore and another top theater name. All appear in Broadway or pre-Broadway plays, none of which has been seen in Chicago.

MEREDITH starred in "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker" on Boardway where Brooks Atkinson called it "an uproarious show, drenched with laughter." A top Boradway cast includes John McGiver.

July 21-Aug. 2, Melvyn Douglas appears in a Theatre Guild production of a new comedy which has its World Premier at the Playhouse. Mr. Douglas plays a domineering papa with five clever daughters.

'Young Lions' At the Catlow

Starting Friday, the wide CinemaScope at the Catlow theatre in suburban Barrington will be filled with Twentieth Century-Fox's production of "The Young Lions," which will run through next Thursday.

"The Young Lions" is the story of three vastly different young men, the girls they loved, and what the second World War did to each of them. But it is not a war story per se, although the conflict motivates and affords a vivid, violent background to what they do.

It is, in fact, really three stories in one: two concern Americans, the other a European, and the three do not fully mesh until the closing moments of the exciting drama. The principal parts are played by Marlon Brando, Montgomery Clift, Dean Martin, May Britt, Hope Lange, and Barbara Rush.

Actress Featured

BARBARA SIMPSON

An Arlington Heights actress is one of the featured players in Hinsdale Summer theatre's opening production, "Inherit the Wind," June 2 through 14.

She is Barbara Simpson, 1911 E. Dundee rd., who was chosen by the play's star-producer, Sidney Blackmer, to appear in this production with him.

She will be featured in other productions this summer, he added.

MISS SIMPSON graduates June 16 from Northwestern university where she has attended the school of speech and majored in dramatics. Her last two weeks of college will be especially busy, attending classes and taking final exams during the day and performing at Hinsdale every night.

Early in May, Miss Simpson was flown to Detroit at Blackmer's request to read parts of three scenes from a new play in preparation for Broadway. Theatrical producer Shepard Traube, Blackmer, and Miss Simpson read roles from the play, "Crazy Old Owl," to encourage investors to participate. (Bill

Warn Motorists: Stay Off Tollway

Motorists who are unable to resist the inviting new pavement on Illinois' 187-mile tollway now nearing completion were warned today that—in the interest of their own safety and protection—arrests and heavy fines are possible for those who illegally use the tollway.

"When the first sections of the tollway are opened in August, motorists will enjoy the utmost in safe, fast transportation," Charles L. Dearing executive director of the Illinois State Toll Highway commission, stated.

"At the present time, however, with construction under way, there are gaps in paving, shoulders not completed, and many other hazards for drivers who enter illegally on the tollway.

"THE COMMISSION has taken every possible precaution to prevent serious accidents while the road is being constructed. Warning signs have been posted at entry points. Contractors and engineering firms have been instructed to see that access points are available only to those authorized to enter on the road. The commission's first traffic regulation, adopted last October, specifies fines ranging from $25 to as much as $500 for illegal entry.

"Nevertheless, this eagerness on the part of the motorists is becoming an increasing problem as paving crews place mile after mile of new pavement.

Captain Albert S. Hinds, chief of the tollway detachment of the Illinois State Police, said that several arrests have been made to date for such violations and that Superintendent William H. Morris had issued orders to all state police to arrest "joy riders" on the tollway as a safety measure.

Presbyterians Announce Plans for Northwest Area

New suburban Presbyterian churches will be organized at Barrington, Hoffman Estates, Inverness, and Plum Grove- Rolling Meadows by the Presbytery of Chicago Church Extension board, which is conducting a Presbyterian Expansion program to raise $250,000 to strengthen and expand its work.

Harold M. Elliott, 433 Sunset lane, La Grange, general chairman of the expansion program, said $100,000 will be applied to the necessary early purchase of land for Presbyterian churches in new and growing suburban areas assigned by the department of church development and Comity of the Church Federation of Greater Chicago.

THE CHURCH EXTENSION board, 50-year-old agency of 80,000 Presbyterians in 150 Chicago area churches which organizes and aids new churches and supervises social service agencies and missions locally, has 25 assignments to organize new churches for early action and 35 for later. There are 69 Presbyterian churches in Chicago and 81 in 69 suburbs and adjacent communities.

Elliott reported in the last five years alone the church extension board has organized new churches at Gages Lake, Winnetka, and Morton Grove on the north; Bensenville, Lombard and Elmhurst on the west; and Colonial Village, Joliet, and Lansing on the South.

"Thousands of people in these and other growing centers have thrilled to the challenge of organizing and building new churches," he said, "and the same can happen again in scores of other locations if we give evidence of our concern today.

"But sites must be sought and secured and purchased early. To delay will mean in many instances that no church will be able to locate in a given area. In other instances delay will mean paying much more for the land. It is both good business strategy and wise Christian stewardship to purchase sites before the price becomes exorbitant."

THE OTHER $150,000 of the $250,000 Presbyterian expansion program will be devoted to long-overdue repairs, additions, and changes in the church extension board's nine neighborhood houses and social service center, the largest neighborhood house program of any Protestant group in Chicago. (B8

Mrs. Edward F. Kelly of Wheeling was elected temporary chairman of the organization, and Mrs. R. Rozhon of Mt. Prospect, temporary secretary. Mr. Stavros congratulated all the ladies present and expressed his hope for a large and strong Democratic Women's organization in Wheeling township.

The first order of business was the formation of a committee to draft a set of by-laws for the organization, the members of which are:

Choice Patterns in Derby China Worth Weight in Gold

The story of Derby china began in 1750 when William Duesbury, in association with Andrew Planche, made the first piece of china in the town. This was very soon after its introduction into Europe by John Bottger, the German pioneer of the ceramic art, in the early part of the 18th century. Derby china quickly attained national fame under Duesbury's direction, and the factory was so well established by 1769 that the famous Chelsea porcelain factory was also acquired.

THE YEAR 1773 was an important one because the Derby factory was visited by King George III,who took considerable interest in its products, and to mark the occasion granted Duesbury a patent to mark Derby china with the crown. From that date Derby china became known as Crown Derby.

After many years of progressive trading by Duesbury and his successors, the original factory, due to the death of its proprietors, was closed; but before doing so, they disposed of the best of the models and moulds, receipts and pattern books and the right to use the various marks to a number of leading potters who continued the production of Derby china at a factory in King Street.

IN 1876 A NEW company was formed to revive the industry in a much larger way and to establish overseas markets. In 1890 Queen Victoria granted the company a Royal Warrent of Appointment as Porcelain Manufacturers to Her Majesty and commanded that the company be known as the Royal Crown Derby Porcelain Co. Ltd.

The porcelain of Derby was a beautiful shade of pure white soft paste and decorations in great variety and good taste. Vases of a wide-mouthed pattern were a favorite product, decorated with birds, flowers, landscapes and figures in medallions with a background of deep rich blue and much gold decoration. They also made a specialty of beautifully decorated porcelain thimbles.

IN THE CROWN-DERBY period were made many beautiful patterns and the porcelain of the highest class was always costly. Dr. Johnson, in 1777, complained that the porcelain cost as much as silver and today one of the choice patterns is worth almost its weight in gold.

Crown Derby patterns may be seen at Dirigo Fine Table Appointments, 170 N. Milwaukee, Deerfield. Dirigo carries some of the older patterns less frequently seen. Club groups are welcomed at Dirigo.

THIS TEA TABLE SETTING, Derby Bird, recently won a ribbon and honarable mention at the Home and Flower show at Navy Pier. Illustrating an English tea table in a competition of settings from around the world, Mrs. Arthur Fink, member of the Amateur Gardeners club of Deerfield, chose her setting from among many unusual china patterns.

(Jenart Photos

Acquiring two sons-in-law, both named William, in one day in two separate ceremonies was a highlight in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Goodenough, 514 N. Eastwood, Mt. Prospect, when their daughters, Arlene and Phyllis, married young men from Arlington Heights May 10. The girls served each other as attendants and shared the same reception before the two couples left for honeymoons at the Wagon Wheel in Rockton.

The first ceremony took place at noon in St. James Catholic church, Arlington Heights, when Arlene and William H. Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Morrison, 803 N. Harvard, Arlington Heights, were married by Fr. Reichert. Phyllis' marriage to William F. Klowsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Klowsky, 6 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, took place in Mt. Prospect Presbyterian church with Rev. Norman Herbert officiating.

BOTH CEREMONIES were double ring and both used white canna lilies and white snapdragons as backgrounds. Mr. Goodenough gave both daughters in marriage.

Arlene's gown was of white chantilly lace fashioned with long sleeves, scoop neckline and pearl trim. She wore a lace crown and a fingertip veil and carried a crescent of white roses, stephanotis and ivy. Her maid of honor was Miss Eileen Monoghan of Chicago and her bridesmaids were her sister, Phyllis, Miss Elaine Heimsoth and Mrs. August Mayerck, both of Arlington Heights.

Arlene's attendants wore pink taffeta street-length dresses with pink hats and shoes and carried crescents of deep red happiness roses.

Best man to Mr. Morrison was August Mayerck of Arlington Heights and ushers were John A. Morrison, brother of the bridegroom from Des Plaines, Duane Goodenough, brother of the bride, and William Klowsky, the about-to-be brother-in-law of the bride.

A white peau de soie gown was chosen by Phyllis for her wedding. Long sleeves and a panel with pearls and lace design featured her gown. She also wore a lace crown and fingertip veil. Cymbidiums, stephanotis and ivy made up her crescent corsage.

ARLENE SERVED as Phyllis' matron of honor wearing a light dusty pink taffeta and white chiffon gown with lace bodice. Mrs. Roberta Morand of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Delyte Winkleman of Mt. Prospect were the bridesmaids and wore gowns identical to the matron of honor's gown. All carried red and white pelargonium carnations.

The bridegroom's brother, John Klowsky of Wauconda, was best man, and ushers were Douglas Winkleman of Mt. Prospect, Lowell Dobbins of Arlington Heights and the bride's brother, Duane Goodenough of Mt. Prospect.

The double reception was held at Medinah country club where dinner was served to 250 guests. Mrs. Goodenough received in a beige nylon lace over taffeta dress with matching shoes and hat. Her flowers were beige cymbidiums. Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Klowsky wore dresses of blue lace over taffeta with blue hats and shoes. Their corsages were also cymbidiums.

Rolling Meadows Housewife Shares Angel Cake Recipe

"Heavenly" is how you'll describe the delectable Angel Cake dessert we are featuring this week.

Mrs. Edward Spacapan of Rolling Meadows served it with great success recently to members of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority. She found that it is a dessert that everyone likes, and so it has become one of her favorite recipes.

A refrigerator dessert, it combines pieces of angel food cake with a rich chocolate sauce and chopped nuts. Assembled in layers, the dessert is served garnished with whipped cream.

ANOTHER ATTRACTIVE feature of this Angel Cake Dessert is that it can be prepared a day in advance.

Rich and delicious, it is a refreshing spring or summertime dessert.

The Spacapans live at 2611 South street in Rolling Meadows. They have four children: Shirlynn, 5½; Edward, 4, and twins Keith and Kevin, 15 months.

In addition to her sorority, Mrs. Spacapan is active in the Arlington-Prospect Faculty Wives club, the Sewing Circle of the Rolling Meadows Community church and the PTA.

Enjoy 'Freedom' Of Casual Living

by JOAN ROGERS

The current trend toward casual living gives millions of Americans new freedom to enjoy their precious leisure hours. Today we dress to our own taste and for our own comfort — whether lounging by the TV on a dark winter day, or playing at our choice of outdoor recreation when the weather brightens.

Even housewives are taking advantage of this trend by adopting the same happy, carefree attitude in the furnishing of their homes. Just as they prefer to wear slacks and low heels to market, they prefer to kick the stilts out from under the old, stodgy fittings of their living rooms.

SO IT CAN BE with you and your home. Why let some "expert" dictate the style or period of your furniture — any more than you let someone else prescribe your "at home" togs? Today's new living is relaxed, easy living in the setting you choose.

If you want to wear daring colors, or costume jewelry with cottons, no one questions your right to express yourself as you please. Then why not inject your own personality into your surroundings as well? Here, too, your frontiers of choice are unlimited and the prerogative is yours.

NO EXISTING rules can bind you in the selection of the furnishings that will make you and your family happy to be home. The "company" parlor with its compulsory horsehair sofa and its antimacassars have gone the way of the standard blue serge "Sunday go-to-meetin' " suit. By the same token, your dining room can reflect the brilliance of all outdoors in its color scheme, if you want it that way.

If every member of your family feels comfortable in every part of your home, and proud of the way it looks — if your friends can identify that home as yours at first glance — then you are a member in good standing of the casual freedom that's associated with modern American living.

OLD ORCHARD on the North Mall — HUBBARD WOODS in the Fashion Center

Just Around The Corner From Patty McArdle

A Mother's Charitable Act

Dear Peg:

Among the many acts of charity mothers are called upon to perform outside of their home duties, such as devoting time to the sick, the aged and under-privileged children, marching in the Memorial day parade is one of the most charitable!

Several times before the big day, I tried to point out to my Brownie troop that it would be a long march and the day would probably be very hot and they would get very tired. However, my objections were overruled and the vote for parade participation was unanimous. (This was one of the times that I wished we hadn't made it so clear to the girls that it was their troop and their decisions as to troop activities.)

The decision made, we practiced during several meetings, marching shoulder to shoulder and on the same foot, turning corners, stopping, starting and keeping time. By Memorial day we were seasoned troupers.

Shortly after 10 on that fateful morning, in full Girl Scout leader uniform, walked out of the front door—headed for the car to drive to the appointed parade gathering place in the middle of town. As soon as the neighbors on either side of us, who up to this moment had been calmly mowing their lawns, saw me, they dropped their lawn mowers, came to attention and clicking their heels, gave me a very snappy salute. Convinced that they were real comedians, they broke into gay laughter and not until they saw that I was not exactly sharing their fun did they stop laughing and mumble something about my looking nice in my uniform.

Now, I knew the worst. If the neighbors were so amused, surely all my friends (who with their kiddies never miss the annual Memorial day parade) would be rolling on the sidewalks when they saw me march by.

Arriving at the appointed meeting place, I found my Brownie troop. They were so excited and happy at the prospect of their first parade. "Oh, Mrs. McArdle!" exclaimed Betty Ann, "isn't this fun? My mother and dad and Margaret's mother and dad and Jane's dad are all standing on the sidewalk in front of the post office waiting for us to march by. When do we start?"

"Too soon—I mean, very soon," I replied. A blow on a whistle and the high school band commenced. Following the band came the Boy Scouts, then the Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts and finally all the brownie troops in our town. It was just as I thought, none of my friends could possibly keep quiet as I marched by and the first block or two I found it difficult to keep my eyes straight forward. Then the nicest thing happened. I suddenly became aware only of my little troop, the band music and the flags waving in the breeze just ahead. Proud thoughts of my country filled my mind and I forgot myself and became only a part of the Memorial day parade.

My love,
Patty.

Quite Contrary by Mary

'Baby Doll' Promotes a Parade

This is a mad, mad world we live in. And, in a mad world, there are bound to be mad neighborhoods composed of even madder neighbors. I live in one of the maddest. The nicest, but I'll stack it up against any other neighborhood for pure pixy playfulness.

If anyone had told me that on Memorial Day I would be in a parade, I would have laughed merrily and vowed they had holes in their heads. Both of them. It was I who had holes in my heads, for I certainly was in a parade. Just think, I am not an ex-Marine, ex-WAC, or even an ex-auxiliary firewoman.

I am not even an ex-girl scout but there I was, with every member of my vast family right down to the newest member parading. There were 1 or 2 other people in the group but by ourselves we are quite impressive.

It all came about because one of the neighbors was so thoughtful as to have his birthday on Memorial Day. And, aonther neighbor is even a little nuttier than the rest of us. She's just one big bundle of ideas. A surprise party was almost a must. But when Baby Doll got through with it, it was a Rodgers and Hammerstein production.

And, we all went along with it because not a one of us had an idea, let alone a good idea, beyond hiding behind the sofa, jumping out idiotically yelling "surprise." She, of the really BIG ideas decided that a parade would be the thing. We all sort of vaguely had ideas of walking down the sidewalk singing "Happy Birthday To You" and agreed that a parade was indeed a peachy idea.

This gal was off and running at our sign of acquiescence and before we all knew what was up, we were ready to hit the road. And, I do mean road not sidewalks. There we were complete with banners, flags, decorated buggy with decorated baby, baton twirlers, Sousa music blaring from the outdoor speaker, and a mighty surprised and, we fondly hoped, pleased birthday boy.

I have been in my first parade. It was such fun. Well, I won't do That again.

Modern Etiquette

by ROBERTA LEE

Q. Does the receipt of a birth announcement obligate one to send a gift to the new baby?

A. There is no obligation, but it is a nice gesture. If, however, one feels one cannot afford a gift, or is not on intimate terms with the new parents, then a congratulatory card or handwritten note would be in order.

Q. Is it considered proper for a girl who is not engaged to wear a diamond ring on the third finger of her left hand?

A. There is nothing improper about this — that is, if the girl does not care about the impression she is giving other persons.

Mrs. Mundy Visits Vienna On Home Trek from Europe

Mrs. Muriel Mundy of Arlington Heights, owner of the Muriel Mundy shop in Dunton court is currently touring Europe. Here is another account of her experiences included in a letter "Back home."

"Our trip is on the home-stretch now. Tomorrow we go to Milan.

"The time has passed too fast, it's hard to realize we've been gone three weeks. Here in Vienna we have enjoyed the wonderful pastry shops where one sits down for a cup of expresso and a tart. We stopped at one called De-Mell's, never have I seen a more mouth-watering sight than these hundreds of varieties of pastries.

"The foreign correspondent for the Herald Tribune wrote that he drove 300 miles out of his way on his trip to Moscow to enjoy the pastries in Vienna.

"VIENNA IS A tremendous city, bustling with activities. The population is 3½ million and the shops are crowded with people; and traffic moves at a nerve-wracking pace.

"We visited the Schoenbrunn castle, the home of Marie Teresa, Empress of Austria, and mother of Marie Antoinette and Franz Joseph.

"We also visited the famous Spanish Ridung School of Vienna. This stable which is housed in a castle, dates back 220 years. The horses are pure white after they reach maturity, although they are brown as colts. Their training takes a period of three to four years.

"DURING THE occupation of Austria the colonel of the court riding school turned the horses over to the protection of the American forces under General Patton. They were returned after the war to the new Austria. These horses may be recognized from the many statuettes seen in our country, mounted by a red uniformed soldier.

"We also attended the opera in the beautiful newly-reconstructed opera house, all aglitter with white and gold and crystal.

"The opera, 'Siegfried,' lasted 4½ hours, starting at 6 p.m. This opera house is the most important one in all of Europe with the exception of LaScala in Milan, which of course is a very disappointing structure.

"VIENNA IS considered the second music center of the world and it was quite a privilege to have witnessed the event in so famous a place. The building was badly damaged during the war and for many years the people of this city were without an opera house. It was rebuilt, mainly by public subscription at tremendous cost.

"On to Milan—Everyone who has ever changed planes at Zurich, Switzerland will agree this is the most beautiful airport in Europe. Flower beds line the walks and balconies and gay colored parasols protect the waiting passengers as they sip their cooling drinks.

"We had scarcely finished the delicious meal we were served on our 2-hour flight from Vienna when we were given a ticket which entitled us to a free drink of either fruit juice, chocolate or expresso when we landed at Zurich.

"After a short wait we boarded the "Alitalia" plane for Milan. We were again supplied with a meal, they do believe in keeping their passengers well fed.

THE SCENERY ABOVE Switzerland is breathtaking, snow covered peaks all about us, and nestled in the valleys were many little cities. Streams of water cascading down from the mountains made a beautiful sight. In no time at all we were approaching the airport in Milan, and what a contrast from the snow-covered mountains to sunny Italy.

"We seemed to have arrived at a critical time politically speaking. Many huge signs stretched across the streets, "Vote Communisto" greeted us as we reached the city proper. Crowds of people had collected at all intersections, delaying traffic, to discuss their political views. These signs were appealing to the people to get out to vote as it was the first election held in five years.

MILAN IS A HIGHLY industrialized city of 1½ million. We passed the Fiat auto factory and the Alfa Romeo plant on the way from the airport. The many motorcycles that dart in and out of traffic are also made in Milan. We learned that more motor scooters were made in Milan than in all the rest of Europe.

"Everything about the city indicated great wealth, construction of both apartment and office buildings is taking place everywhere. These are all beautiful and modern structures. The women are dressed in good taste, well coiffed and they all wear gloves and carry umbrellas which they use as walking sticks. The men too, were exceptionally well dressed. The children most of all attracted us, with their neat clothes and fine manners. Boys and girls of all ages, holding the hands of their parents as they walked down the street.

"THE SMALL BOYS wear hats and suits with short trousers, neatly pressed. Not a pair of blue jeans in sight anywhere.

"The chemise dress is not in the controversial stage here, in fact, I'm sure this is where it was born, as nearly all of the women were wearing chemise style dresses, regardless of age.

"In spite of the fact that spaghetti is considered a typical dish, the women in this city evidently do not care for it as they all seem to have slender figures. Even the more matured women here are slim and walk with a sprightly step.

"OUR REAL THRILL was Paris—We arrived at a time when normally there is a lot of traffic. As our car sped along from Orly airport not a soul was in sight. No cars were on the road, not a person to be seen anywhere. We began to think we had used poor judgment in coming to Paris, but as we reached downtown, bedlam broke out. Thousands of people were milling about. Soldiers and police everywhere. It seemed everyone was at the Place de la Concord.

"Our hotel faced the Place and from our grandstand window we had a magnificent view of the area, brightly lighted, fountains in operation. We were delighted with our location, directly across from the American Embassy.

"The evening of our arrival was not as exciting as the following evening when De Gaulle made his headquarters at the Presidency. That evening (last Thursday) the demonstration lasted all night. The cars, thousands of them, were bumper to bumper filling the Place, beeped to the rythmn of 'DeGaulle au pauvior! DeGaulle au pauvior!' all night long; meaning DeGaulle to power.

THE DEMONSTRATION was very orderly, but perhaps the thousands of police standing nearby and what they call their "riot squads" with rather sinister looking guns, may have been the reason

"On Friday night when we were attempting to make our way back to the Crillon in a cab, our way was barred by police standing shoulder to shoulder across the bridges. They were permitting traffic to leave the Place de la Concord, but were not allowing any cars to enter. As we had been over on hte left bank, having dinner at a little Basque restaurant which our Paris friends had recommended we could not come back over the bridge.

"Our cab driver protested in vehement French but to no avail, they would not let him through but told him to go around. And around means miles away and then when he made an attempt to turn on the Champs Elysees we were not permitted to do that either.

"WE COULD CROSS but not travel on it, so we got out and walked back to our hotel. The purpose in all this was to avoid any disorder, or possible blood shed. We saw only one actual fight and that was from the safety of our hotel window. This was quickly subdued by a surging mass of policemen who were nearby.

"The crisis in Paris did not prevent the Couturiere from holding their fashion shows. Three of these magnificient events we attended and our trip to Paris was very rewarding." (B8

PARISHIONERS of St. Raymond Catholic church in Mount Prospect this week recalled the interest of the late Samuel Cardinal Stritch in their activities. Here he is shown (center) on a June, 1952 visit for the dedication of the church. A second visit was for the dedication of a school in 1954. Funeral services for the church leader were held Tuesday. More than 350,000 persons viewed the bier at Holy Name Cathedral including many Catholics, clergy and laymen from Northwest suburbs.

Complete Youth Study

An institute on juvenile delinquency for the clergy jointly sponsored by Sheriff Joseph D. Lohman and the Downtown Center of the University of Chicago successfully ended May 29 with more than 200 ministers having participated.

The eight weekly sessions on "The Church's Role in Delinquency Control and Prevention, for the Clergy," drew ministers from Chicago, Cook county and several surrounding counties.

This was the third such institute developed by Sheriff Lohman and the university. The office of the county superintendent of schools cooperated in one for 250 school personnel and the Cook County Juvenile Officers' association participated in a similar course for 150 police juvenile officers.

LOHMAN commented, "These institutes provide a basis for a more realistic and dynamic relationship between the clergy, school personnel, the police and the community in helping young people."

Instructors included Lohman and other eminent sociologists, psychiatrists and authorities on juvenile law.

The clergy institute sessions were held in the 11th street theatre and the county building in Chicago. (B8
